BRUNSWICK TO GET HUGE PAPER MILL COSTING 7 MILLION

Pines To Be Used To Produce Pulp Which Will Be Manufactured into High-Grade Paper, Used for Stationery, Books.

OHIO CORPORATION IS BACK OF PLANT

Factory Will Be Located On 200-Acre Marsh Land Tract on Turtle River, Just Outside City Limits

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Plans were disclosed today for a large paper mill here—the second to locate on the Georgia coast in recent months.

Incorporation papers for the concern, the Brunswick Pulp & Paper Company, were filed here. It was understood the plant, when completed, will represent an investment of $7,000,000.

The corporation was organized by the Mead Corporation, of Chillicothe, Ohio, for the manufacture of bleached and unbleached kraft pulps.

The disclosure of the contemplated plant here was made as Georgians obtained their first view of this new industry at Savannah, where the Union Bag & Paper Corporation opened its $4,000,000 plant to public inspection.

Studied 20 Months. Announcement of the coming to Brunswick of the Mead subsidiary brings to a conclusion more than 20 months of research, investigation and extensive study of the Brunswick area.

The plant will be located on a tract of 200 acres of what is now marsh land, which fronts on Turtle river just outside Brunswick's city limits. Filling in of the site by dredging, it was announced, will be completed in several weeks, following a final survey by engineers.

For the first operation only 40 acres of the marsh land will be filled in, with other sections of the tract being developed as needed for expansion of the new industry. The entire frontage of the site is 100 acres.

It also is necessary to construct both railroad sidetracks and highways to the site.

Just what expenditure the first unit of the plant will represent has not been announced by officials of the company, but it is reliably stated the first unit will be followed by two others within the next few years, and may result in construction in Brunswick of the largest pulp mill in the South.

To Ship Pulp. In connection with the products of the Brunswick plant, it was stated the first unit will not provide for manufacture of paper, but will be devoted to producing pulp for shipment to other plants of the Mead Corporation, located in several sections of the country.

It was stated, however, the Brunswick plant will be the first in the South to produce pulp from slash pine for manufacture of high-grade paper, including book and stationery and other better grade paper. Other plants in the South, it is stated, are manufacturing only yellow paper for the manufacture of bags and wrapping paper.

As to its source of raw material from the piney woods section of South Georgia, it is understood the Brunswick plant has not acquired any timber properties as its principal source, but will afford the owners of timber tracts opportunity to furnish them with the raw material, thus giving full advantage of the possibilities.

In addition to the pulp plant, it is

ABOARD DIRIGIBLE HINDENBURG, Oct. 1.—(UP)—A gradually increasing its speed to 40 miles an hour, the Hindenburg today was racing around the world in Germany on time to catch their first continental plane, the giant dirigible Hindenburg, before 11:30 a. m. Saturday when all three contestants planned to board the Deutsche Luftschiffahrt plane for home on the second leg of their 22,000-mile race.

The race—H. R. Ekins, of the New York World-Telegram and Sun; Leo Kieran, of the Atlanta Constitution; and the New York Times, and Dorothy Kilgallen, New York Evening Journal and International News Service, spent most of the first day discussing the "journalists' derby."

Proposed by Governor. Governor Talmadge vetoed the old-age pension amendment in the general assembly session of 1935 and is known not to have altered his views on the subject. Pension advocates held out no hope of getting him to place the amendment on the ballot.

The opinion of Mr. Davis, rendered by the majority of a number of cases said to prevail in the instance, follows:

"The decision of the supreme court in the Horvath case should not discourage the advocates of old-age pension."

Fascists Bottling Up Madrid, See Victory in Three Weeks

Rebels Relentlessly Shutting Every Avenue of Escape From Capital; Red Solons Vote Autonomy to Insurgent-Held Provinces To Bolster Support.

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.) TOLEDO, Spain, Oct. 1.—Fascist legions under General Francisco Franco tonight advanced on three highways toward Madrid in what insurgent leaders hoped would be wedges blocking off avenues of retreat for the government forces.

One column marched toward Naval Carnero, a second beyond Illescas and a third on Gran Juez. Each of the cities is on a main highway leading into Madrid from the south.

In Madrid, legislators granted Basque Nationalists in the north autonomy, in an apparent government effort to strengthen their support of the "popular front" regime.

Aran Juez, southeast of Madrid, tonight was Franco's main objective. If his troops should capture this city, he will have cut off the three main escape arteries south of the capital.

Troops under General Emilio Mola in the north control the two main highways leading into Madrid from that direction.

If the insurgents should keep the troops in control of all these highways the only road open to retreating government forces out of Madrid would be the highway to Valencia which runs dangerously close to Fascist territory around Guadalajara.

Insurgent leaders, in their government seat at Burgos, tonight proclaimed that the fall of Madrid could be expected within three weeks. The Madrid government, they predicted, would be "in complete panic," which would lead to the Fascist final assault.

Lisbon reports tonight said fascists pushing toward Madrid from the northwest had captured Puerto de Arbetacapas.

The spearhead of Franco's troops tonight was pushing beyond captured Illescas, less than 20 miles from Madrid.

GEN. FRANCO HEADS INSURGENT JUNTA. (Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.) MADRID, Spain, Oct. 1.—(AP)—General Francisco Franco, commander-in-chief of the Spanish Fascist armies, today assumed the leadership of the insurgent junta, thus becoming the potential dictator of Spain.

Fascists overthrew the Madrid regime.

Word that the National Forest Reservation committee, of which Senator Walter F. George is a member, has approved acquisition by the government of the additional acreage was disclosed today by Joseph C. Kircher, southern regional forester for the United States.

The approval means the establishment of the Armuchee purchase unit, with a gross acreage of 250,000, and the Lookout Mountain purchase unit of 204,000 gross acres. The new purchase units will be under supervision of J. V. Pratt, of Lincoln, supervisor of the Chattahoochee National Forest. Forty-three thousand acres of the Lookout Mountain unit lie in Alabama, but for the time being will be administered from the Gainesville forestry office, Kircher said.

Location of Tracts. The Armuchee purchase unit lies in Calhoun, Chattooga, Floyd, Gordon, Walker and Whitfield counties in northwestern Georgia. It is located in what is known geologically as the Armuchee ridges. The north end of the unit is 15 miles east of the Fort George military reservation and the south end five miles north of the Berry schools.

The Lookout Mountain unit lies in Chattooga, Dade and Walker counties in Georgia and DeKalb and Cherokee counties in Alabama.

Mr. Kircher said the two new purchase units were important from every angle of forest conservation. Very

AL CLAIMS GLORY FOR 1932 VICTORY

Denies Grudge, But He Brings Out Fact F.D.R. Has Not Solicited His Advice Since Election.

(Text of Address in Page 14.) CARNegie HALL, NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Alfred E. Smith broke his lifelong ties with the Democratic party tonight when he endorsed Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate, for president of the United States.

"I firmly believe," Smith shouted, in his nasal twang, "that the remedy for all the ills we are suffering from today is the election of Alfred M. Landon."

Landon Welcomes SUPPORT OF SMITH. TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon said tonight he welcomed the support of Alfred E. Smith.

"I deeply appreciate the support of Alfred E. Smith, a great Democrat and a great American. He has placed country above partisanship. The issues of this campaign are so fundamental they transcend party lines."

This election will decide the form of government we shall pass on to future generations. I am happy to fight shoulder to shoulder with such leaders as Alfred E. Smith in this contest for the preservation of American principles."

He was speaking to an audience bearded in Landon sunflowers, an audience that cheered every attack on the New Deal and came out of its chairs, yelling approval as Smith bolted the Democratic party for the first time in his long political career.

It was a hard-hitting speech that spared no one, not even the President of the United States, who formerly was a close political ally and personal friend of Smith.

"Corporation Lawyer." "Let it be noted for the record," Smith said, "that the present chief executive of the United States, when he earned a dollar outside of his salary in the executive mansion, earned it as a corporation lawyer in Wall Street."

Roosevelt, Smith and Knox Fire Political Broadside

President Defends Program Before Cheering Pittsburgh Audience; One-Time "Happy Warrior" Comes Out Flatly for Republican Nominee.

By The Associated Press. Alfred E. Smith came out flatly for the Landon-Knox ticket last night in a speech denouncing the New Deal a few minutes after President Roosevelt had upheld his program as a vehicle for prosperity.

Recalling 1933 conditions, the President told a cheering Pittsburgh audience the billions spent had "protected the small business, the small corporation, the small shop" from further deflation.

Amidst applause and some boos, Smith portrayed his former political ally as a promise-breaker before an anti-Roosevelt rally in New York, said the businessman "is getting kicked all over the lot," and added: "I firmly believe the remedy for our ills is the election of Governor Alf M. Landon."

Calling Smith a "great American," Landon in Topeka immediately said he was "happy to fight shoulder to shoulder" with him for preservation of American principles.

Colonel Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential nominee, charged the administration with "profligacy" before another Pittsburgh meeting shortly before the President spoke. He reiterated that "deficit financing" had endangered life insurance policies and savings accounts.

On his way to Pittsburgh, Roosevelt told a trainside gathering at Fairmont, W. Va., the first visit in 65 years without a national bank failure had just been completed.

"We have spent to save," said Secretary Roper to a rally at East Orange, N. J. He predicted a balanced budget in two years, if present conditions continue.

In Beatrice, Neb., Secretary Wallace recalled farm prices of three years ago and contended the Republicans "are asking for 1932 conditions." He advocated the re-election of Senator Norris, Republican Independent supporter of Roosevelt.

At San Francisco, Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate for president, denounced both the Democratic and Republican parties.

Three days of acrid debating and wrangling between the senate and chamber ended in "clipped" victory for the premier.

He won authority to reduce the gold content of money. He lost the free hand he sought to fight price rises and attendant social disturbances.

The senate refused pointblank to give him unilateral decree power he asked. Finally he had to rest content with a mandate to issue decrees subject to approval of a national economic council.

Officials indicated the government will not attempt immediately to fix a definite value of the franc. It will find its own level in world exchange values within the limits of 43 to 49 milligrams gold content provided under the devaluation law.

This would give it the possibility of fluctuations between the values of 20.15 and 22.96 francs to the dollar.

The bourse and money exchanges, closed six days during which there have been no official operations in securities, bonds or foreign exchange, were expected to be reopened tomorrow or Saturday.

But a threatened strike of 20,000 employees of Paris hotels, restaurants and cafes may bring an immediate test of the power just voted to the government and economic council to force arbitration of labor disputes.

Striking river boatmen still blocked waterway strike movement continued to ebb and flow throughout the nation.

The French chamber gave final parliamentary approval to the devaluation measure by a vote of 254 to 217. The senate earlier adopted the measure without a record vote.

Promulgation of the act by President Albert Lebrun was the only routine step necessary to make reduction of the gold content of the franc a law.

To Limit Interest. After adopting the main devaluation measure, the chamber indorsed and sent to the senate several "social measures" carrying compensation to special groups. These sections were eliminated from the devaluation bill.

Cobb: Mr. Simpson Like Vice President. (Copyright, 1936, by North American News.) HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—As we read about life in royal circles, it would appear that Mr. Ernest Simpson, of London, England, occupies a position over there somewhat similar to the position occupied by a vice president of the United States over here—in other words, he has a residuary interest in the future, but no active hand in present programs.

The reports that Mr. Simpson contemplates a divorce are denied. It seems that, even though in this case it necessitates a lot of traveling around, he believes a husband's place is at his wife's side.

PRESIDENT VOWS FUTURE WON'T PAY FOR OUR RECOVERY

Bought Increase in National Income Swells Tax Payments, Making Depression Victory Pay for Itself; Cost 8 Billion

INCOME TO EQUAL OUTGO IN 2 YEARS

To Have Balanced Budget in Past Three Years Would Have Been a Crime, F.D.R. Explains.

(Text of Address in Page 6.) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recited tonight a story of billions poured into the battle against depression, then assured thousands of persons crammed into Forbes field that the national debt would not be paid by "oppressive taxation on future generations."

The President assured the nation that if national income continued to rise as it has been rising, the government's annual budget could be balanced "within a year or two" without additional taxes.

The President declared that it "would have been a crime against the American people" to have balanced the budget in 1933, 1934 or 1935.

He contended that his administration had piled up the national debt by $8,000,000,000 and had much to show for it, while in four years under President Hoover, whom he mentioned by name, the debt was increased $3,000,000,000 without visible results.

Invested in America. "While many who criticize us today were selling American short," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "we were investing in the future of America."

Then near the end of his second major campaign speech, he turned to the question of meeting the cost, asserting it was a "foolish fear" that the debt would impose a "crushing load" upon "your children and mine."

"This debt," he said, "is not going to be paid by taking away the hard-won savings of the present generation."

"It is going to be paid out of an increased national income and increased individual income produced by increasing national prosperity."

"The deficit of the national government has been steadily declining for

MY COOKERY

By MISS RUTH CHAMBERS.

Once the meat's selected, any meal practically plans itself. Homemakers know from experience how true this is, in fact it's so true that to some of us lamb immediately suggests green peas and mint jelly, while pork means apples, and ham calls for sweet potatoes.

Just because we're likely to get into such combination ruts, I'm suggesting several dinner menus planned to satisfy in every way and, above all,

GUARDSMAN INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

George Wilson, Georgia national guardsman, was admitted to Grady hospital last night after the motorcycle he was riding had crashed into a parked automobile on Campbellton road, near Lee street.

Wilson, riding a national guard motorcycle, was going south on Campbellton road when a car he was following turned sharply forcing him into the parked car belonging to L. J. Furbush, of 1274 Epworth street, police said.

Hospital officials said his condition was serious. He suffered a possible fracture of the spine and severe cuts and bruises.

Here's That Drugless Way to Lose Ugly Fat!

WILL you do only two pleasant things to get rid of your ugly fat?

In a recent test held under the direction of the eminent Dr. Damrau of New York, 14 people who were gaining at the rate of 1 1/2 pounds a month, followed this method. And the average loss registered was 7 pounds a person in a single month—without strict dieting or exercising.

First, eat sensibly. Second, mix 3/4 of a glass of Welch's Grape Juice with 1/4 of a glass of water and drink before meals, and at bedtime. No strict dieting, exercising or taking drugs. Yet!—weight losses of 7 pounds a month have been credited to this Sars method.

In following this proved, pleasant way to lose ugly fat, accept no substitute for the one and only Welch's pure, unadulterated, full strength grape juice. Made from the finest grapes grown; always full strength; certified pure.

PAY RAISE ANNOUNCED BY GEORGIA PLANTS

Mills at Georgia Points State
Increase and Adjustments
To Be Made.

By The Associated Press.

Textile mills in a number of Georgia cities announced pay increases for their thousands of workers yesterday bringing substantially larger pay rolls to already prospering communities.

Following the published report Thursday that the West Point Manufacturing Company, at West Point, Ga., had notified its 2,000 employees they would receive a 5 per cent increase in pay this week, it was revealed yesterday that other plants were also putting pay raises into effect.

The Dixie Mills, at LaGrange, also posted notice of a 5 per cent increase, while officials of the Callaway Mills, there, announced that base rates of pay will be guaranteed to all the approximately 5,000 pay roll employees of the organization.

The announcement from the Callaway general offices was taken to mean that a large percentage of the employees, heretofore subject to deductions from their pay envelopes based on normal production, will now get normal wages in all cases. Those whose output is higher than normal will continue to receive the customary weekly bonuses. The Callaway officials declined to estimate the probable increase in the weekly pay roll, stating that it would vary.

A 5 per cent wage increase for the 2,500 employees of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company was announced at Rome by Harry P. Melkham, in charge of the mill.

Melkham said that improved business made the increase possible. The Lanett Bleachery and Dye Works, at West Point, announced a 5 per cent increase in pay affecting approximately 800 people.

It was estimated the 5 per cent increase of the West Point Manufacturing Company would amount to $7,500 a week on the basis of an estimated weekly pay roll of $150,000. The company operates cotton mills at Lanett, Shawmut, Langdale, Fairfax and Riverview, Ala.

O! O! Doughnut Trade Is Now Out of the Hole

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The National Doughnut Association was assured at its annual convention today that the doughnut industry "is definitely out of the hole."

F. D. Noonan, secretary of the National Doughnut Month committee, told representatives of 200 bakery organizations that 30 doughnuts per capita were consumed in this country last year as compared with 25 in 1929, the previous peak year.

He explained October was chosen for doughnut month because it has two "O's."

"What it's done for oysters," he said, "O's should do for doughnuts."

SERVICES SET TODAY

Final rites for Captain Frank Phillips Milstead, 41, member of the Candler field air corps reserve, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor.

The Rev. C. D. Wilmer will officiate, and burial will be in Gainesville, Fla. Captain Milstead died Wednesday at Base Hospital No. 48.

BEER CURFEW LAW TO GET COURT TEST

Police Not to Make New Cases Without Specific Order.

Police were ordered yesterday not to make any more cases against "beer curfew" violators unless specifically instructed to do so by the chief of the committee of public safety.

The new "curfew law" for beer and wine establishments will get its first legal test at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning when four defendants appear in recorder's court to face charges of violating the city ordinance.

Shortly after midnight yesterday morning police looked cases against Elmer Simmons, 407 Moreland avenue, N. E., W. S. Meeks, of 295

Ponce de Leon avenue; J. G. Hartsfield, of 917 Peachtree street, and John Douglas, of 475 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Police charged them with selling beer and wine outside inner fire limits after midnight.

The ordinance approved by council September 21 requires places situated outside the inner fire limits selling beer and wine to close at midnight unless they obtain petitions from a majority of tenants and property owners living within 100 yards of the establishment.

Also included in the special order from Chief Sturdivant yesterday were two routine transfers. Radio Patrolman G. M. Ellis was ordered to a walking beat effective immediately and E. W. Brannon to take his place in the radio car. R. R. Bradford was detailed to the evening watch and H. E. Burdett was transferred to the morning job.

N. Y. Times Supports Roosevelt As Insurance Against Radicalism

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The New York Times, in an editorial titled "A Reasoned Choice," today announced its support of President Roosevelt for re-election.

The Times is an Independent Democratic newspaper and, the editorial said, a "conservative newspaper in its own sphere."

"The New York Times . . . believes that the public welfare will be served this year by the continuance of the Democratic party in power and by the re-election of the President," the editorial said.

Three reasons are cited for the paper's choice. First, the Times said, it is its belief that a second Roosevelt administration would be more conservative. Second, it is its view that the re-election of the President "will provide insurance against radicalism of the sort which the United States has most to fear."

"Finally," the editorial said, "we believe that the narrow nationalism for which the Republican party stands today is in itself a policy, which, if put into force, would carry us rapidly in the direction both of 'regimentation' and 'radicalism.'"

The Times said it believes the President is "a keen enough judge of public opinion to make his second administration more conservative than the first, in the sense that conservatism means consolidating ground already gained and perfecting measures hastily enacted."

At the outset the editorial stressed the fact that in the past three years the newspaper "has felt compelled to oppose various policies, acts and utterances of a Democratic administration," and added it would not wish to withdraw this criticism.

The attitude of the Republicans on international issues leaves the advantage "distinctly with the Democrats," the editorial said.

THOMAS FLAYS LONDON ON 'FANTASTIC PLEDGES'

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Norman Thomas in a speech before the Commonwealth Club today denounced the major political parties for "doing nothing" to avoid de-pressions. "The next great depression," he declared, "will scarcely find men so docile as the last . . ."

"The Republican party is making the most ridiculous campaign—promising a reduction of the budget and lower taxes, and to do better by the aged and to do more for the farmers—that's fantastic—you can't do these all at once."

Speaking of Landon, he said: "I am sorry I characterized him in a speech last night as a boob—what I really meant he is an average man." Turning aside a moment to publishers, he declared: "Nothing is stupider than the Hearst type of anti-red campaign—if Landon were wise he would disclaim Hearst and gain several thousand votes—I hope that will be printed in the Examiner."

ROAD BIDS TODAY Contract to Complete Atlanta-Buford Road To Be Let.

YOU MADE IT THE LARGEST SELLER

Let MRS. S. R. DULL, the South's Foremost Culinary Expert, tell you how your purchases of Merita Cakes have made them a greater value . . .

Says Mrs. Dull: I never knew until the other day just how volume production works. When the Bakers of Merita Cakes told me they were going to maintain the size and richness of Merita Cakes in face of higher prices for all fine ingredients they use, such as eggs, butter, flour, I couldn't understand it at first. I knew, of course, that home baked cakes cost more to make this fall, and I knew, too, that Merita Cakes use the same high quality ingredients. But then they explained to me that the more cakes they baked, the greater economy they can effect on each cake. And because you, by your purchases, are buying more Merita Cakes than ever before, they can make Merita Cakes a greater value than ever before. Now you need no longer deny yourself the luxury of these fine cakes, for they are true economy when compared with home baked cakes or, in fact, any dessert.

ALABAMA INDUSTRY
FIGHT SECURITY ACT*Firms That Employ 75 Pct.
Of Labor There Will Go To Court.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 1.—(AP) Counsel for industrial firms that employ more than 75 per cent of Alabama's labor worked tonight to perfect plans for a broad attack on the social security act.

The decision to launch the attack through a three-judge federal court here hinged on completion of an agreement with the state of Alabama to hold social security taxes in trust until the suit could be settled by the United States supreme court.

Attorney General A. A. Carmichael said he favored the agreement and predicted its completion.

Among the many firms instituting the suit are the Alabama Power Company, Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, Gulf States Steel and others.

The array of legal talent here conferring with the attorney general included Borden Burr, Logan Martin, John Coleman and other Birmingham lawyers; Marion Rushton, of Montgomery; John Denson, of Opelika, and Neal Sterne, of Anniston.

PARK AREA INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Increase of areas embraced in the Chattahoochee National park in north-west Georgia was included in approval of the Forest Reservation Commission for addition of 392,365 acres to 45 national forest units at a cost of $1,946,172.

The Chattahoochee purchase approval calls for 10,473 acres costing $45,001.

In addition, the commission extended boundaries of the park to include two other units, the Lookout Mountain unit of 204,000 acres and the Armuchee unit of 250,000 acres.

THREE MEALS A DAY*HOME TESTED RECIPES
BY Sally Sawyer

Who can remember the days when grandpa used to teeter back on his chair, reach for an apple, and peel it in small delicate spirals clear down to the stem without ever breaking the peeling? Nobody could ever do it with quite the flourish and finesse that grandpa brought to it. Today alas, apple peeling is virtually a lost art.

But the art of apple eating, long one of the dearest pleasures of childhood—is coming into its own again, as autumn brings the first hint of crisp days to come—and the first of our season's prime apples. Apples are with us, in some form or other, virtually the year round. But come September, and fruit stalls are gay with those early autumn arrivals which suggest the best of autumn harvests.

Perhaps the highest tribute one can pay an apple is simply to eat it—just as it is—crunchy, juicy, tempting. Long content to flourish on its own merits as one of the most tempting of fruits, the apple needs no recommendation to any child. Nor to most adults.

Whether we hold to grandpa's school of fancy apple-peeling, or whether we take them just as they come, apples are among the most welcome of all signs of the mellow fruitfulness of autumn.

With good apples so abundant in the markets now plan to serve frequent apple dishes—savory pies, apple puddings and apples baked with a surprise touch of currant jelly. Some time soon try some of the following recipes for hearty desserts:

Apple Pie.

Pare five to six tart apples, core and cut into slices—about sixteenths. To the apples in a bowl add 2-3 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Roll pie dough out to 1-8 inch in thickness, and a little larger than the pie pan. Fold the sheet of pastry in half and place in a nine-inch pie plate; then unfold pastry. Press lightly to fit plate and trim edges. Place apples in the pie shell and dot over with one teaspoon butter. Roll upper crust to 1-8 inch in thickness and one inch larger than plate. Fold in half and make 3 slits, 1-2 inch in length, in center edge of folded side. Moisten edge of lower crust with a little water and place upper crust in position and trim, leaving one inch on all sides. Carefully fold and press down upper crust under lower crust all around the edge. Finish by making a crimped edge with the finger tips or by marking with the tines of a fork. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 degrees F. and bake until apples are tender—about 45 minutes in all.

Baked Apples With Currant Jelly.

Wash and core 6 apples. Cut skin around center with a knife to prevent apples bursting while cooking. Mix together 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water, and baste apples every five minutes with syrup. Bake at 375 degrees F. for half hour. Just before removing from oven, sprinkle with granulated sugar and return to oven until sugar melts. This gives a glazed appearance. Before serving place a small spoonful of currant jelly in center of each apple.

Butterscotch Apples.

Core as many apples as are wished. Do not peel. Fill each cavity with brown sugar and place a lump of butter on top of each apple. Arrange in a rather deep cake or pie pan, put in water about 1-2 inch deep and add enough brown sugar to make a syrup. Bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees) for 20 to 30 minutes and serve either plain with the syrup or with whipped cream. A few nuts can be added to each apple if desired. The brown sugar and butter give the apples a delicious flavor.

Autumn Cup Cakes.

Cream 1-2 cup butter, add 1 cup sugar gradually, and cream together thoroughly. Add 1 egg and beat until fluffy. Add 1-2 cup pure apple butter into which 1-2 teaspoon soda has been stirred, then 1-4 cup chopped pecans and 1-4 cup seedless raisins. Mix well. Sift together 2 cups pastry flour (sifted once before measuring), 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon salt and add to butter mixture alternately with 1-4 cup milk. Bake in greased cup cake pans in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Frost.

The Old Favorite Pot Roast.

That good old favorite pot roast can be made into an entirely new and enticing flavor treat by marinating it before cooking.

The trick of marinating a pot roast comes to us from our foreign neighbors. Sauerbraten is the typical German pot roast, marinated in vinegar and cooked with plenty of onions and seasonings. Other nations have similar characteristic roasts.

A marinade, or seasoned liquid, poured over raw meat and allowed to stand for 24 hours, before cooking, does two distinct things to its quality. First and foremost, it gives the meat a new flavor, more pronounced, more elusive and far more interesting than the plain meat flavor. But beyond that it helps, to a marked degree, to make a less tender cut of meat into a deliciously tender product. The acid in the marinade is responsible for this tenderizing effect.

Almost any combination of flavors may be used in the marinade so long as an acid is the foundation. Diluted vinegar, well seasoned with onion, garlic and bay leaves makes one excellent flavor combination. Tomato juice highly seasoned with salt, pepper, celery salt, Worcestershire sauce or tobacco sauce gives an entirely new flavor, yet, does the same job of tenderizing as the vinegar.

A new flavor combination with beef is that of cider and spices, the combination so often connected with three whole cloves, a quarter teaspoon of cinnamon and ginger added to the cider gives just the right emphasis to the cooked roast.

About two cups of liquid will cover an average-sized pot roast if put into a small enough pan to avoid excess space. Choose a mixing bowl or glass baking pan, fit the meat into it and pour the marinade over it until it just covers the meat. Place in the refrigerator overnight.

Some of the marinades tend to change the raw meat color somewhat, but will not affect the color of the cooked roast.

After 24 hours soaking, remove the meat, brown it as usual, then pour the marinade over the browned roast, cover closely and simmer over a low fire for three hours or until tender. Flouring the roast before browning it helps to thicken the gravy around the meat. Deliciously characteristic gravies result from the different marinades and should be served over plain boiled or baked potatoes.

Vinegar Marinated Pot Roast.

One cup vinegar, 1 cup water, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 2 cloves, 4 bay leaves, 1-2 teaspoon dried mustard, 1 whole onion, 1 bunch celery.

Cut three to four-pound chuck roast into a crockery or enamel pan which will leave only a minimum space around the meat. Mix the marinade and pour over the meat, covering it completely. Add the bay leaves and sliced onion over the top. Let stand 24 hours in refrigerator. Remove from marinade, flour and brown thoroughly in melted lard. Allow the onions to brown with the meat. Turn the fire very low. Add the liquid in which the meat stood overnight, cover closely, and cook very slowly until tender. Thicken the gravy if desired. Serve with boiled potatoes and spinach.

Spiced Pot Roast.

One and one-half cups cider, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon ginger.

Mix the marinade and pour over a three- to four-pound chuck pot roast, allowing it to stand for 24 hours in the refrigerator. Remove from the marinade and flour, brown in hot lard. Turn the fire low, add the marinade to the meat, cover closely and allow to simmer for three hours. Thicken gravy if desired.

Serve with boiled noodles and whole boiled prunes.

50,000 FEEDER PIGS EN ROUTE TO SOUTH

Production Soon of Enough
Pork to Supply State Is Predicted.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The arrival in Georgia of hundreds of feeder pigs from the south sections of the middle west, brought the state nearer today to its goal of producing all the pork it consumes.

In the past, Georgia has imported 65 per cent of the pork and lard it consumes annually, agriculturists of the University of Georgia System estimated.

Approximately 50,000 feeder pigs will reach south Georgia, north Florida and southwest Alabama in the next few weeks, livestock experts said, with many hundred already in the section.

In addition to the pigs, a number of steers have been brought in from the north sections.

The pigs, which weigh from 50 to 75 pounds, will be ready for market early next year. They will be turned on peanut fields. Steers will be given a ration of corn, pea vine hay and tankage.

The demand for feeder pigs is great.

18 Miles per Gallon!

"My 1936 Dodge is the best looking and the most economical car I have ever owned—and I have owned and driven lots of them," says Dr. Frank P. Davis. "I have averaged 18 miles to the gallon of gas—quite a saving when you figure on a yearly basis!"

San Francisco
22 Miles per Gallon!

"Every time I drive my big, new money-saving Dodge, I get a new thrill," says Mrs. Theodore Chertin. "It's so good looking—and so utterly dependable. And that's not all. My new Dodge is giving me over 22 miles to the gallon of gas. I never buy any oil between drains."

Philadelphia
21 Miles per Gallon!

"I had a long trip to make recently," says Henry Reinbolt, "and I averaged a little over 21 miles to the gallon of gas. I bought my new Dodge because of its striking lines and appearance. You can imagine how gratifying it was to have it prove its economy...and what performance!"

Is it any wonder more people are buying Dodge cars than any other make excepting the three lowest-priced cars?

er in Georgia, which has four major packing plants at Moultrie, Tifton, Albany and Atlanta, than it is in any other state in the southeast, officials said.

"We are beginning to arrive at the point where he will soon begin to produce the beef and pork we consume," one livestock expert asserted.

In their survey of the state's livestock program the university agricultural committee said:

"There is little or no chance of an overexpansion of pork production in Georgia. Our people are the largest consumers of pork in the nation. If the price of pork is at any time unfavorable we can kill the hogs at home, store the meat and freeze the main essential in a live-at-home program; for example, when the price of hogs fell to approximately three cents, Georgia butchers in one year 1,030,000 hogs, the largest farm slaughter of any state in the nation."

"There are still 30 per cent of the farms in Georgia that do not have a hog, a condition which should be corrected."

Cotton and cottonseed accounted for $83,022,000 of the increase, although the gains from this source were only 4 per cent.

Peanuts showed a 29 per cent increase, eggs 22 per cent, chickens 14 per cent and milk 10 per cent.

Truck crops generally brought 26 per cent more.

F. D. R. CO-OPERATION IS PLEDGED BY PACE

Congressman - Designate
From Third District Nominated at Americus.

AMERICUS, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Stephen Pace, congressman-designate of the Third Georgia district, told the congressional district convention today he would give President Roosevelt his "sympathetic co-operation."

"I don't know that I shall be able to agree with him at all times," Pace said in his acceptance speech, "but when he turns his guns on the fortifications of special privilege, when he battles the entrenchments of trusts and monopolies, when he seeks to place the farmers of the south on an equality with the industrial barons of the east, when he steps forth and says he wants to give every man and woman an equal opportunity, you will not only find me by his side, but I will be beating such a melody as Dixie and the Star-Spangled Banner that you'll think that little drummer boy has come back to life."

Pace said he was "irrevocably committed to the principle that governments are founded to protect and not support the people."

Pace will succeed Congressman B. T. Castellow, of Cutbert, who did not offer for re-election. He defeated Solicitor General Hollis Fort, of Americus.

Delegates from the 20 counties composing the district attended the convention.

'GRAVITONIC LIFE RAY' BRINGS TWO ARRESTS

Man, Woman Are Charged
With Cheating and Swindling Here.

Disbelief of city police that an electric current can produce a "cosmic ray" capable of curing all ills, led to the arrest of a man and woman yesterday on charges of cheating and swindling in connection with the "Gravitonic Life Ray Company, Inc." located at 1008 Peachtree street.

Booked at the police station on orders of Chief T. O. Sturdivant, were Dr. Fred B. Smith, 62, lecturer, and Mrs. Ann Reddy, 30, owner of the "Gravitonic life ray machine."

Dr. Smith was taken into custody late Wednesday night after a lecture on applied psychology and the beneficial effects of the life ray which he said, found the causes of all ills and removed them with the help of nature. Detective Lieutenant C. E. McCarry and Detective Leo Nix and M. M. Coughenour arrested Dr. Smith for investigation and Mrs. Reddy was booked at the police station early last night. Their bonds were set at $500 each with a hearing in the recorder's court scheduled at 2:30 o'clock, October 9.

Mrs. Reddy told officers yesterday she heard from a New York friend of a wonderful cure for ailments in St. Petersburg, Fla., and after taking treatments there she decided she must help others suffering humankind by purchasing a life ray machine from its inventor, Professor Fred Reed, of California and elsewhere. She did, and brought it to Atlanta, where Professor Reed himself aided her in opening a month or so ago by giving a lecture and demonstration at the Erlanger theater.

Detectives said the "Gravitonic life ray machine" is a table rigged with pads and wires and the ray is supplied by electrical current from the Georgia Power Company. The "Gravitonic Life Ray Company, Inc., operated as a school of applied psychology and taught much the same methods as Come, or France, with his "Day by day in every way I am getting better and better" and so forth.

From Bath to Ocean.

A look at the first lesson of the school in which Dr. Smith was the instructor is interesting. It takes man's mind from the small confines of a bathroom, from which the saying, "I am the little fish in the pond," evidently arises, to the broader expanse of great bodies of water, as exemplified in the saying, "I am the great fish in the Atlantic waves."

Dr. Smith said the student at his school repeated over and over the sayings of the lesson until he was in "treatment" with the "Gravitonic life ray machine" were given at $25 for six treatments. This brought health, wisdom and happiness to the pupil.

But detectives, who were not impressed by their attendance at Dr. Smith's Wednesday night lecture on the "High Art of Right Living," rudely interrupted the activities of the school and produced information on the history of the life ray machine.

The Bureau of Business Bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, they discovered that the machine's inventor, Professor Reed, has a long police record in California, that he has been convicted twice of practicing medicine without a license and for violation of the narcotic law. This information has been supplied to the office of the solicitor general by the bureau, it was said.

Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just doctoring your stomach with harsh laxatives and astringent tablets. Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to indigestion, not to constipation. Constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-causing bacteria.

If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantities of dangerous bacteria accumulate, when your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your head aches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, grouchy, wretched, unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED.

Thousands of sufferers have found in Adierka the quick, scientific way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adierka rids you of gas and cleans your system out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka. Get a box of Adierka. Adierka does not grip—it is not habit forming. Leading Druggists.

Location of the two tracts of land in north Georgia, totaling 434,000 acres, which will be added to the Chattahoochee National Forest, is shown here. The acreage will nearly double the present national forest area in Georgia.

U. S. FOREST IN STATE WILL BE INCREASED

little, if any, of the land, he said, was good for profitable farming and its purchase by the government was welcomed because it provided a market for unproductive or tax-delinquent property.

All of it will produce timber. Forester Kirchner said, and very little tree planting will be required. Under scientific management, these units may be expected within a few years to provide part-time employment for areas of hundred families and become important factors in stabilizing industry in north Georgia.

To Aid Flood Control.

Located in a region of heavy rainfall, both areas play an important part in watershed protection with consequent benefits to flood control. The southern part of the Armetuchee unit is drained by the Coosa and Oostanaula and Chattooga rivers, all tributaries of the Coosa, and the northern part is drained by the east fork of Chickamauga creek which empties into the Tennessee. In the Lookout Mountain unit a number of small streams rise, about half of which drain into the Tennessee river and the other half into the Coosa.

Mr. Kirchner stated that both of the new purchase units were possessed of high recreational value because of their scenic beauty and accessibility. He said the forest service would follow its established policy of developing the areas for recreational use by the public, where such activities did not interfere with the primary function of growing timber. Cloudland and other important Georgia resorts are located within the vicinity of the Lookout Mountain unit on the east.

Meca for Tourists.

Mr. Kirchner pointed out that the mountain area bounded, in general, by Chattooga on the west, Asheville on the north, and Atlanta on the south, was rapidly becoming one of the most important tourist areas in the entire United States. He said this was inevitable on account of its nearness to the large centers of population in the United States, its long tourist season, its natural beauty, and its historic interest.

The new purchase units all provide important opportunities for fish and game management in Georgia. Under Kirchner declared. As might be expected, game and fish are at present almost negligible in these areas, but under the forest service's policy of protecting and restoring the national forests for the development of wild life, these areas will become important sources of game.

The fish and game commissioners of Georgia and Tennessee have both recently entered into outstanding agreements with the United States Forest Service for effective co-operation in game management between federal and state authorities. Georgia, through its game commissioner, Zack D. Cray, led the way and Tennessee followed. The co-operative agreements which they made with the federal forestry authorities attracted nationwide attention at the time they were signed as pointing the way toward progressive action by other states in wild life conservation.

The Georgia Historical Commission and Miss Ruth Blair, state historian, secured the tablet.

Chief Justice R. C. Bell, John places on the program for addresses. Seated members of the court given B. Hutcheson and Price Gilbert.

The inn where the court met stood on the present site of the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Carter.

The supreme court, which now holds all its sessions in Atlanta, was an itinerant body when founded, traveling about the state to conduct its hearings.

Justices presiding at the initial meeting of the tribunal were Hiram Warner, of Greenville, and Eugene A. Nisbet, of Macon. Justice Lumpkin, of Athens, was absent on account of illness.

THREE SEIZED HERE IN ROBERTS' SLAYING

Investigation of murder. Police said that three persons were seized from a rooming house on the night of December 17, 1935, shortly after parking his car in a garage behind his apartment residence at 318 Fourth street, near Argonne avenue.

The load from the shotgun entered his abdomen. He staggered across the yard and collapsed in the kitchen of his home as his daughter, Virginia, 20, opened the door. She was drawn to the rear of the house by the sound of the shot. Mr. Roberts died without uttering an intelligible word.

Footprints Heard. A neighbor told police she had heard running footprints in the alley adjoining the apartment.

When slain, Roberts was returning from a meeting of salesmen for the tea and coffee company by which he was employed. He drove into the garage and sounded his horn, his usual signal greeting to the family. His wife told a daughter, Peggy, 10, to open a door on the back porch for the father. Virginia Roberts, however, ran to the door, hearing her younger sister, when she heard the shot.

Detectives E. L. Hilderbrand and W. M. Holland were assigned to the case the morning after the slaying. After visiting the scene of the slaying they announced "there were no clues."

A negro was arrested in connection with the investigation of the murder on December 17, but was released the same day.

After an inquest, Coroner Paul Donegan announced that Roberts met death at "the hands of a person or persons unknown." Dr. J. C. Bialos, county physician, who performed an autopsy, stated in his report the shotgun charge, which resembled "a fine bird shot," entered Roberts' left chest, striking the heart, and then passed into the right chest, causing collapse of the lung.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts lifeless?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. J. S. Leonard known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, and restores the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that Jacobs Drug Stores and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today—take them as directed—then if not completely satisfied with results—your money back.—(adv.)

Noted Speaker at Mission Session Here

Preaching Mission Draws Hundreds To Hear Famous Church Leaders

General Headquarters Established at First Baptist Church; Sixty Meetings Are Scheduled Over City; Speakers Urge Revival of Christianity.

Hundreds of Atlantans yesterday thronged various meeting places as the Atlanta Preaching Mission swung into action and a galaxy of nearly a score of internationally-known speakers addressed the local gatherings.

The first of a series of 60 meetings which will be packed into the four-day life of the mission were held, and today a pretentious list of noted orators and leaders will appear before additional enthusiastic crowds.

General headquarters were established at the First Baptist church, but so varied was the program, that additional meetings were scheduled in several other places.

Entered at Breakfast. Greeted at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel by Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church, of Atlanta, and one of those most active in planning the series of addresses here, and by Dr. William A. Shelton, chairman of Atlanta's committee of 100, sponsoring the sessions, the teams were guests of a group of Atlantans for breakfast yesterday morning.

Following that they swung into the various sessions.

Speakers called for a revival of Christianity, they appealed directly and forcefully to youths, and linked Christianity with the economic future and the future stability of nations.

Among the arrivals were: Dr. Jesse M. Bader, secretary of the commission on evangelism of the Federal Council, New York.

Dr. Ambrose Bailey, pastor of the Baptist church, Lowell, Mass.

Dr. George A. Buttrick, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, New York.

Dr. Harry N. Holmes, secretary of the World Alliance International Friendship Through Churches, New York.

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor, St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South, St. Louis.

Dr. Rufus M. Jones, chairman, American Friends Service committee, Haverford, Pa.

Dr. W. P. King, Methodist minister and author, Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. T. Z. Koo, international worker with World's Student Christian Federation, Shanghai.

Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton, chairman, marriage and home department, National Council of Federated Church Women, Harlem, Ind.

Dr. W. T. Taliaferro Thompson, Union Seminary, Richmond.

Dr. George W. Truett, president of the Baptist World Alliance, of Dallas.

Despite the fact that most of the speakers have delivered many addresses within the past few days, none of them showed the strain under which they are laboring.

Important Address. Among the important addresses delivered yesterday was one by Dr. T. Z. Koo, international worker with the World's Student Christian Federation, at Shanghai, China, who spoke at a meeting of young people at the First Baptist church. Dr. Harry N. Holmes, secretary, World Alliance International Friendship Through Churches, New York, also delivered a forceful address at the same meeting.

Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton, chairman of the marriage and home department, National Council of Federated Church Women, Harlem, Ind., yesterday asserted there is a strong swing from sophistication to deep facts of life by the young people. She is one of the speakers of the Preachers' team.

The preaching mission was organized in Albany, N. Y., after much planning and prayer, the leaders asserted yesterday. Various congregations have lent their most forceful orators to the drive for reawakening of America.

20,000 Visitors Inspect Plant Of Huge Paper Mill at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 1.—The official inspection of the new $4,000,000 pulpmill and box plant of Union Bag & Paper Corporation of Georgia, held here today, was marked by the attendance of over 70 of the company's executive officers and financial officers, together with a number of other distinguished out-of-town guests and over 20,000 Georgians who wished to see the workings of Savannah's newest industrial development.

The official party arrived early this morning, and immediately after breakfast proceeded to the mill, where they were joined by Mayor Gammon and the board of aldermen of Savannah.

The party completed the tour of the mill shortly before noon, and returned to the city, where they were the guests of Union Bag & Paper Corporation at a luncheon at a local hotel.

Following the luncheon, J. H. Allen, a vice president of the Georgia corporation, who was introduced by Alexander Calder, the president, pointed out that the company was in reality engaged in the sale of Georgia pine trees, and invited the guests to visit the vast timber resources during the afternoon. Mr. Allen also pointed out the fact that the mill was the newest, most modern and lowest-cost mill in the United States.

Mr. Allen also paid a tribute to the chemical, mechanical and electrical genius which had made such a project possible, and brought out the fact that with the addition of the second unit, now under construction, this Georgia development would be the largest kraft paper mill in the world under one roof.

Following Mr. Allen, Dr. Charles Herty extended an invitation to the guests to visit the laboratory wherein he has done so much to further the use of Georgia pine in the manufacture of pulp, rayon and naval stores. Many of the guests later took advantage of this opportunity to visit one of the foremost research laboratories in the world.

Colonel E. George Butler, of the industrial committee of Savannah, then advised the guests that the privileges of the Country Club were at their disposal during the afternoon. Other distinguished guests were also introduced by Mr. Groves.

The mill, as it stands today, will give the party of visiting directors and stockholders some idea of how it will look next June when it is expanded from a $4,000,000 to a $7,000,000 plant, Calder said in an interview.

He said the machinery, in operation less than two months, is averaging better speed than any other plant in the south of similar size.

"The quality is better than has ever been made in the south in so short a time and the quantity, which is based on the speed of the machinery, is also greater than any other mill of similar size."

RAILROADS SEEK WAY TO HALT SLATED LOSS

Transportation, Shippers' Heads Meet To Change Tariff Rates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Preliminary steps looking to recovery of a substantial portion of the more than $100,000,000 revenue American railroads will lose with the expiration of surcharge rates next December 31 were taken today by the carriers.

A group of representatives discussed with leading shippers their proposals described as "practically complete" for adjustments in the freight rate structure.

Spokesmen for shippers included a committee appointed by the National Industrial Traffic League, a shippers organization, and representatives of both the anthracite and bituminous coal associations, all of whom withheld comment after meeting behind closed doors.

The surcharges which expire shortly yielded carriers an additional $100,000,000 last year, and promised more in 1936 on the basis of heavier traffic.

To Select Items. The Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to make the surcharges permanent, but suggested the carriers go through their rate structures and select items which they felt would bear more tariff. It was these railroads requested and representatives of both the anthracite and bituminous coal associations, all of whom withheld comment after meeting behind closed doors.

F. D. R. SAYS SPENDING IS BALANCING BUDGET

three years running, although technically, this year it did not decline, because we paid the bonus this year instead of in 1945. Without the bonus the deficit would have declined this year.

"The truth is that we are doing better than we anticipated in 1935. The national income has gone up faster than we dared then to hope. Treasury receipts are increasing."

Getting down to actual figures, he said that national income was $38 billion in 1932, in 1935, $53 billion, and this year "it will be well over 60 billion."

"If it keeps on rising at the present rate, I am confident that it will be $70 billion in 1937. The receipts of the government, without imposing any additional taxes, will, within a year or two, be sufficient to care for all ordinary and relief expenses of the government—in other words, to balance the annual budget."

"The government of this great nation is not in a position of coming through a crisis as grave as war without having sacrificed American democracy or the ideals of American life."

Our Box Score. The President spoke from the ball park of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and led right off by comparing the New Deal to a ball club.

The crowd filled the park's normal seating capacity of about 35,000 and also approximately 15,000 temporary seats on the field.

He said he was going to talk about the box score of the government—a story of the "fight to beat down the depression and win recovery."

"From my standpoint," he said, "it looks as though the game is pretty well in the bag."

He said he was convinced that when the government finance or any other "is honest" it is "just plain scoreboard arithmetic."

Then he launched into a description of declining national income in the early days of the depression, remarking that the only way to keep a government out of the red is to keep the people out of the red.

During the four lean years before this administration took office, that national income had declined from $1 billion a year to $38 billion a year—in short, you and I—all of us together—lost making 40 billion dollars less in 1932 than we made in 1929," he said.

"Now, the rise and fall of national income—since it tells the story of how much you and I and everybody else are making—is an index of the rise and fall of national prosperity. It is also an index of the prosperity of the government. The money, to run the government, comes from the taxes; and the tax revenue in turn depends for its size on the size of the national income. When incomes and values and transactions are up, the government's receipts are up. When they are down, the government's receipts are down."

People Must Prosper. "If the national income continues to decline then the government cannot run without going into the red. The only way to keep a government out of the red is to keep the people out of the red. We had to balance the budget of the American people before we could balance the budget of the national government."

"That makes common sense, doesn't it?"

He contrasted the $8,000,000,000 at which he figured the increase in the national debt during his regime with the billions poured out in war loans and in investments abroad during the twenties.

"Contrast these expenditures and what we got for them with certain other expenditures of the American people in the years between 1929 and 1930. During that period not merely eight billions but many more billions came out of American pockets and were sent abroad—to foreign countries where the money was used for increasing foreign armaments, for building foreign factories to compete with us, for building foreign model dwellings, for building foreign swimming pools and slaughter houses, for giving employment to the foreign unemployed—foreign boomlogging, if you will."

"These dollars were just as good American money—just as hard-earned—just as much the reward of our thrift—as the dollars we have spent at home giving work to the unemployed. Most of those dollars sent abroad are gone for good. Those billions, lost to us under previous administrations, do not include the other billions loaned by the United States to foreign governments during and immediately after the war."

Sounder Investment. "I ask you the simple question: Hasn't it been a sounder investment for us during these past three years to spend eight billions for American industry, American farms, American homes and the care of American citizens?"

Discussing the eight million dollar figure, he said it was arrived at by charging off against total increase in the debt an increase in government assets.

To figure the debt increase at 13 billions instead of eight is just as correct as "telling you good people here in Pennsylvania that none of your bank deposits or insurance policies are sound."

It was Frank Knox, the Republican vice presidential nominee, who in Allentown, Pa., September 5, declared no insurance policy was secure nor bank deposits safe under New Deal monetary policies.

The President was greeted by thousands along the three-mile route from the depot to the baseball park. In downtown Pittsburgh the crowds were packed almost to the middle of the streets and motorcycle police had difficulty moving them back.

A huge electric sign with a picture of Roosevelt and the words "The Man Who Saved America," swung high over the procession as it neared the field.

A great cheer went up from the throng crammed into the park and out on the diamond as Mr. Roosevelt rode onto the infield and took his place on the flag-covered rostrum.

Applause and cheers greeted the President's remarks from the very outset when he compared the administration with a baseball team and said the present-day boxscore showed the new "management" voted into office in 1932 was "winning" the game.

What Advice Meant. Back in 1933, the President said, if he had accepted advice to "let nature take its course and continue a policy of doing nothing," it would have meant:

A continued wiping out of people of small means—the continued loss of their homes and farms and small businesses.

The loss of all the resources of a multitude of individuals and families and small corporations.

A concentration of property ownership in the hands of one or two per cent of the population.

"To have accepted that advice," he said, "would have been to open breadlines again to the American people, knowing this time that in many places the lines would last far longer than the bread."

"In those dark days, between us and a balanced budget, stood millions of needy Americans, denied the promise of an American life."

Humanity, he said, came first and the "vicious tightening circles of our declining national income simply had to be broken."

"I refused to leave human needs solely in the hands of local communities—local communities which themselves were almost bankrupt."

Returning to his train, the President rode through more lines of cheering people, some of whom raced along the sidewalks trying to keep up with his car.

The train, which had been switched to another rail line, was to pull out in the early morning hours for New York city. From there, he will motor to Jersey City, N. J., tomorrow to dedicate a new medical center, come back to New York for a World Series ball game and the ground-breaking for a new Queens-Manhattan tunnel, and then proceed by train to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Hoover Confers With Alf Landon, Declares G. O. P. Cause Improved

Former President Announces He Will Make Several Addresses in Interest of Republican Party Beginning October 15 in Philadelphia.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 1.—(P)—Governor Alf M. Landon talked presidential campaign plans for nearly an hour with Herbert Hoover today and the former president afterward told newsmen "the Republican cause is making progress."

"What I'm going to say about this campaign, I'm going to say in front of a microphone," Hoover added as he stood beside Landon on the front porch of the executive mansion, right hand thrust into his trousers pocket. "I start in Philadelphia October 15."

The Californian and the Republican presidential nominee had talked for 55 minutes in the high-ceilinged living room of the Governor's mansion. They came out together to face a group of reporters and photographers, both smiling broadly.

"Have you anything to add to Mr. Hoover's remarks?" Landon was asked, just before the conference concluded.

"It's been a very pleasant visit," the candidate replied, turning back from the door. "I was delighted to have Mr. Hoover here for an opportunity to talk over campaign plans."

Both returned to the house to pose for photographs. Hoover joined Landon in saying he would be glad to attend a chicken dinner arranged for the Governor by correspondents before word of the ex-President's visit had been received. He planned to leave late tonight for Chicago.

When Hoover and Landon emerged on the front porch one of the first questions to Hoover in the brief press conference was:

"Where are you going to speak?" "We've been talking about that. My first speech will be at Philadelphia October 1. There'll be various notes to add to that later on."

He declined to list other speeches that he will make under the auspices of the Republican national committee. The number, he said, had not been determined.

Asked what he and Governor Landon had discussed, he replied:

"We discussed the campaign in general."

"How does the campaign look?" "I think the Republican cause is making progress," Hoover replied.

"What is the reaction to Governor Landon's speeches?"

"I think it's good," said Hoover.

The Californian reached Topeka at 4:27 p. m. (Atlanta time) from Denver where he spoke last night. Dressed in a black, single-breasted, business suit, Hoover stepped off his train, smiling a greeting to a crowd gathered at the station. He walked to Landon's automobile, and before driving off, was questioned by reporters.

"I think the Republican party is making progress right along," he said, adding when asked if there was any specific trends:

Landon said the visit by Mr. Hoover had been expected since he had a telephone conversation with him early in September.

Elaborating at a press conference before Hoover's arrival upon his earlier statement disclaiming support of "any elements who are endeavoring to bring racial prejudices and religious bigotries into American life," Landon said:

"I think there can be a suspicion that the Democratic party is not above reaching for attempting to misrepresent my position."

"The attempts to stir up racial prejudice and one thing of another are evident in many ways," he added.

Since Landon's nomination by a convention which Hoover addressed the former president has arranged with John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, to make several campaign speeches.

John B. Andrews, chairman of the fund's old-age pension committee, said the report had not been acted upon by the committee and represented only the views of a staff member.

"The statement which I released," the nominee said when questioned about the two statements, "I did not receive from any member of the staff or from anyone connected in any way with the Twentieth Century Fund research staff."

WETS ARE SEEKING
LEGISLATIVE RIGHTLiquor Dealers Rap Law
Barring Tavernkeepers From Public Offices.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—With a rallying cry of "Look at Abraham Lincoln" members of the Illinois Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective Association launched a campaign today for the right to hold public office.

They asked the state legislature to look at George Washington, too, and to consider well whether the Illinois law barring liquor sellers from elective positions was really just.

"George Washington," the association set forth yesterday in a resolution directed to the legislators, "was one of America's leading distillers."

"Abraham Lincoln was a tavernkeeper in Illinois."

Had Lincoln lived in Illinois under the present law, the association pointed out, he could not have run for office. Thus the law would not only have denied the public the services of a man honored by history but conversely, the resolution continued:

"This law prevents a certain number of individuals of the type of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln from becoming tavernkeepers."

Reminding the legislators of the people's rights as set forth in the Declaration of Independence, the association held that "to take away from a tavernkeeper one of those inalienable rights, that of holding public office when selected by his constituents, is ... un-American."

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Fox Has Fine Feature
In 'Mary of Scotland'

"Mary of Scotland," spectacular photoplay dramatizing Mary Stuart, whose glamorous and tragic career is one of the richest chapters in the turbulent 16th century, will open today at the Fox theater as the product of an unusual array of talent.

Katharine Hepburn and Freddie March co-star as the hapless Scottish beauty and her lover, the Earl of Bothwell—roles that give full scope to the brilliance which won for them academy awards in "Morning Glory" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Nor are the stars of this production alone in having had the highest critical recognition of their brilliance. The story is drawn from the stage hit by Maxwell Anderson. It was directed by John Ford whose work on "The Informer" won the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences directorial award for 1935. It was adapted to the screen by Dudley Nichols, winner for the 1935 academy adaptation award for his screen play for "The Informer."

The film treats of the later years of Mary's life which were made as dramatic and thrilling as any fiction by the intrigues of Elizabeth of England, the murderous treachery of her own nobles and denunciations by Scotland's fiery religious zealot, John Knox. It builds to its climax with Mary, proving more a woman than a queen, gives these ruthless enemies the opening they need to blast her from her throne by losing her sense of statecraft in her reckless romance with Bothwell.

Florence Eldridge appears as Elizabeth; Morone Olsen as Knox; Douglas

Walton as Mary's second policy-spouse, Lord Darnley; Ian Keith as her power-greedy half-brother, Moray; John Carradine as the Italian advisor, Rizzio, whose fantastic murder turned her distant foe Darnley to hate; and Alan Mowbray as Elizabeth's ambassador, Throckmorton; they head the notable cast of 40 principals.

Others who have important roles are Ralph Forbes, Robert Barrat, Gavin Muir, William Stack, Frieda Inescort, and Donald Crisp.

Pandro S. Berman, who has to his credit such hits as "Top Hat," "Follow the Fleet," "Of Human Bondage," and "Alice Adams," produced for R-K-O-Radio.

'Pepper' at Paramount
Starring Jane Withers

Kicking shins, hurling tomatoes, busting windows and raising the roof in general, Jane Withers takes time out from her wild pranks to play a half-pint Robin Hood of lower New York in "Pepper," her new Twentieth Century-Fox picture which opens today at the Paramount theater.

With Irvin S. Cobb and Slim Summerville as her hilarious henchmen, "Ginger" Jane goes on a riotous rampage in her new hit that promises to eclipse even the merriest of the mischievous miss' previous triumphs.

The film opens in a wild rush of excitement and comedy as Jane leads her "gang" through the streets, celebrating the Fourth of July by creating havoc in the neighborhood. The fun ceases abruptly when Jane comes upon a family being evicted from the tenement flat and she sends the other kids out to raise the $11 necessary to pay the rent.

When they fall short of their goal by $5, Jane decides to get the money from Irvin S. Cobb, a dyspeptic millionaire. Threatening Cobb with an overripe tomato, Jane blackmails him for the money.

Amused at Jane's impish antics, Cobb takes her to Coney Island and later they visit Jane's home, where Cobb meets Summerville, her uncle and guardian.

Much against Cobb's will, his daughter has announced her intention of marrying a millionaire. Summerville notices a picture of the engaged couple in a newspaper and reveals that he has met the baron somewhere before and that the baron is a fake. Cobb offers Jane and Slim $5,000 if they can expose the baron and prove him an impostor. How Jane does so, with the help of her crowd of ragamuffins, provided a riotous climax to the hilarious film.

'Last of the Mohicans'
On Screen at the Grand

The world over James Fenimore Cooper's "Leatherstocking Tales" have entertained generations of readers with pictures of pioneer life in America, and now the most famous of these, "The Last of the Mohicans," comes to the screen, dramatized by the makers of "The Count of Monte Cristo" and presented with the same fidelity and artistry. Appearing in the cast of "The Last of the Mohicans," which starts today at Loew's Grand theater, are Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, Harry Wilcoxon, Bruce Cabot, Phillip Reed and Heather Angel.

Cooper's story is a familiar one, as compelling and enthralling today as it was a century ago. It is a tale of Colonial America, beginning in the year 1757, during the French and Indian War. The French and the Hurons, allies, are besieging Fort William Henry, on Lake George, with Montcalm as their leader. The English commander of the fort is Colonel Munro, who has two daughters, Alice (Binnie Barnes) and Cora (Heather Angel). The girls, not fully appreciating the dangers of the virgin territory, overrun by hostile Indians, set out with Major Heyward (Henry Wilcoxon) to join their father at Fort William Henry. Major Heyward is in love with Alice.

A renegade Huron, Magua (Bruce Cabot) is their guide. But Magua misleads the party, planning to betray them into the hands of hostile Indians. Hawkeye, the Colonial scout (Randolph Scott), appears in time to save the girls and their party from capture. Hawkeye and Alice soon fall in love and their romance grows as they travel under Hawkeye's direction toward Fort William Henry.

'Give Me Your Heart'
Is Georgia Holdover

"Give Me Your Heart," a poignant screen drama based on the famous stage play by Jay Mallory, "Sweet Aloes," will be held over at the Georgia theater, beginning today with Joaquin Kay Francis in the stellar role.

The picture, a Cosmopolitan production, released by Warner Brothers, gives Miss Francis the finest dramatic opportunity of her career, presenting her as an ultra modern young Englishwoman who seeks happiness in London, New York and Italy.

The plot is daring, the situations novel in the extreme, but most striking of all is the treatment which is frank and brilliant, but clean and in good taste.

The unusually talented cast supporting Miss Francis includes George Brent, Roland Young, Patric Knowles, Henry Stevenson, Frieda Inescort, Helen Flint, Harold Hobbes, Zeffie Tilbury and Elsiebeth Dudgeon.

The picture was directed by Archie L. Mayo from the screen play by Casey Robinson.

'Crash Donovan' Opens
At Capitol on Sunday

In presenting the only new show in downtown Atlanta, starting Sunday, the Capitol theater will present an outstanding pre-war both on the stage and the screen.

The feature picture will be "Crash Donovan," with Jack Holt, John King, Helen Gray and Eddie Acuff in the leading roles. This is one of the most exciting and thrilling romance dramas to be seen this season and deals with the adventures of the state highway patrolmen. The story opens with excitement and events mount rapidly to the smashing climax.

The new stage show starting Sunday will be "Priscilla Potties," a gala revue with a cast of 20 stage and radio stars offering eight acts of vaudeville. There are a number of outstanding acts which are staged with special scenic and lighting effects.

The current feature picture at the Capitol is "Three on the Trail." This outstanding western drama is another

Pulitzer Prize Play,
'Craig's Wife,' at Rialto

The story of a woman who sacrificed everything worth having in life to one selfish, one obsession, is told in powerful dramatic manner in "Craig's Wife," Pulitzer prize winning play by George Kelly, which comes in its screen version to the Rialto theater beginning today for week's engagement.

Rosalind Russell, outstanding find of the past cinema year, essays her first drama role in this production and proves she is equally as effective in the more serious characterizations as she is in comedy. Playing opposite her, as the husband, and giving what has been acclaimed as the finest performance of his career, is John Boles. The splendidly selected cast includes also Billie Burke, Jane Darwell, Dorothy Wilson, Alma Kruger, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Risdon, Kathleen Burke and other famous players. Dorothy Arzner, famous woman director, made the picture.

Obsessed with her love of a material home, "Craig's Wife" fails to recognize the loss she sustains in the finer things of life in love and spirit and friendship and the story tells, in forceful, relentless manner, the way in which her neglect of husband, friends and comradeship leads to the inevitable shipwreck of her entire life.

With clever short subjects as added attractions, "Craig's Wife" will show at the Rialto for the full week ending next Thursday night.

Carol Merman Stars
In New Atlanta Show

Carol Merman and her "daring damsels," described as the finest and snappiest production of all under the auspices of the Eastern Burlesque Association, will open a week's engagement at the Atlanta theater tonight. Owing to the length of the jump from Cincinnati, from whence the company comes here, there will be no matinee today.

Some old Atlanta favorites are in the new show, including Hal Rathbone and Homer Monahan, who have worked out some brand-new ideas in fun-making for the comedy side of the production.

LeRoy and Rappee, famous dance team of the most popular night spots of the east, is a feature attraction, while feature women, some new to Atlanta and others who already have their coteries of fans in this city, include Louise Keller, Agnes Dean, Ethel Mervin, etc.

Frankie Ralston staged the production, which includes new, spectacular stage settings and ensemble numbers of the chorus which has won acclaim all around the circuit.

There will be a week's matinee and night performances for the seven days of the week, with the sole exception of the matinee today. On Saturday night matinees will be given Sunday performances for the benefit of the Associated War Veterans. Reserved seats at the box office which opens every morning at 11 o'clock.

President's Address
At Forest Festival

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address here today at a mountain state forest festival:

The setting in which we are gathered today for this forest festival turns our thoughts toward conservation. This wonderland of natural beauty is at one and the same time a challenge and a justification. It demonstrates what can be done in the way of conservation of our resources. It shows us how prodigious nature is in her gifts while at the same time it emphasizes the necessity for men to supplement nature's work in order that the rich gifts which are ours may be brought to their fullest usefulness in the service of all mankind.

The state of West Virginia is rightly proud of its glorious natural scenery, but the state also shows to us what happens when man flies in the face of nature. Today I have seen many square miles of splendid mountains which have been denuded of timber, have seen yellow streams carrying eroded soil and silt from the steep slopes.

MAN'S PAST ERRORS
CAN BE CORRECTED

In this state as many others we are proud of the growing consciousness of the people themselves that man's errors in the past must be corrected by man in the future. In this worthwhile effort the state and the federal government are working hand in hand.

Here and hereabouts you see what can be done through the National Forest Service in co-operation with the work of the state conservation preserves; you have an opportunity to observe first hand the practical contribution to enlightened conservation made by our CCC camps and all of the other agencies whose activities are directed to the preservation of our matched resources here at the gateway to the Monongahela national forest.

No part of our conservation work is more important than the protection of our wild life. It is a work into which we can all enter heart and soul because there is no political partnership in an activity whose object is to preserve and restore the life of our great out of doors.

I am sure that those in this audience who are devotees of outdoor life, whether fishermen, hunters, naturalists, campers or hikers will rejoice to know what has been done during the last three and one-half years to protect and perpetuate our wild life. In the past it had been shamefully neglected and exploited.

One of the earliest concerns of this administration was the securing of funds to provide a natural wild life restoration program and a policy that would make certain that the conservation of wild life is a work into which we can all enter heart and soul because there is no political partnership in an activity whose object is to preserve and restore the life of our great out of doors.

Plans to accomplish this had been available for years but they had been in great part ignored.

HUGE FUND APPROPRIATED TO PRESERVE WILD LIFE

We enacted a national wild life conservation program which proposed to provide abundantly for the needs of wild life by purchase and retirement of agricultural lands subsurface mineral rights and by the purchase of other suitable lands and by making generous allocations of public lands, all to be set aside as sanctuaries.

Allocations totaling $1,700,000 have been made from current emergency funds to support the wild life program—an amount more than the total of all funds previously appropriated for that specific purpose.

In addition, I approved an act of Congress continuing an appropriation of $6,000,000 of emergency funds for identical purposes, making altogether $20,700,000 for the conservation of waterfowl, birds and other valuable forms of American wild life.

We outlined and enacted a legislative program to give effect to our policy.

(1) The duck stamp bill, which has raised about $700,000 a year for the protection of migratory birds.

(2) The conservation bill requiring active co-operation by each department of the administration and cabinet officer in the enforcement of game laws.

(3) The Robinson bill creating game sanctuaries on all public properties, a big step forward.

4,800,000 ACRES SET ASIDE
AS WILDLIFE RESERVES

Besides this we completed the migratory bird treaty with Mexico which had hung fire for nearly 20 years.

We have also completed a similar treaty with Canada which gives protection on the southern flight. By the terms of the treaty with Mexico, the progress of wild life migratory birds on the northern flight.

I cite these facts because critics of this administration have lately been engaged in expressing dissatisfaction with the progress of wild life restoration by the federal government during the past three years.

Yet in pursuance of this program the nation has in that time acquired and set aside some 4,800,000 acres of land and dedicated it to the restoration and perpetuation of valuable wild life. Many of these refuges have been located on the principal nesting and breeding grounds of the wild fowl; others are placed along the waterways of the country to give others afford rest, food and safety to the birds in their winter quarters.

In the western country great ranges have been established to perpetuate the big game species, the elk, antelope, mountain sheep and the deer. As these sanctuaries afford shelter and security to birds of song and insectivorous birds and to great variety of other wild creatures. The total area of federal wild life sanctuaries acquired in the previous years was approximately 1,800,000 acres in the United States.

Thus since June 30, 1934, more than two and one-half times as much wild life sanctuary area has been acquired or is now being acquired than in all the preceding years in the history of our government. This work is now going on and it will be continued with the same vigor and singleness of purpose.

13 MILLION CITIZENS
HUNT AND GO FISHING

It is pertinent to remind you here that seven million of our citizens take out fishing licenses each year and that six million more take out annual hunting licenses, a total of 13 million—a veritable army to uphold the banner of conservation.

Drainage, drought and overhunting have greatly decreased the numbers of our water fowl. I have for three consecutive years at the cost of much bitter criticism approved regulations drastically reducing the open shooting seasons and bag limits and prohibiting the use of certain devices known to be unduly destructive. As a consequence I am informed that these species have shown some increase in numbers and it is believed that they may now survive these disasters.

Such, my friends, is a brief and incomplete statement of the ways and means by which this administration has made effect its recognition of the fact that the wild life in our fields and woods and waters, constitutes a resource of vital importance to all Americans and that it is the responsibility of the federal government in co-operation with the states to safeguard it for future generations. At last we are making definite progress.

Alfred Smith Reveals His Reasons For Leaving the Democratic Party

CARNEGIE HALL, N. Y., Oct. 1. (AP)—The text of Alfred Smith's address before the Independent Coalition of American Women follows:

I desire at the outset to thank the national coalition of American women for this opportunity to address their organization and their guests here in New York city.

Before I get started I want to deal very briefly with one of the chief characteristics of the New Deal. That characteristic is, be sure that you hear plenty of abuse on anybody that happens to disagree with you. Unless you are ready to subscribe for the New Deal 100 per cent and sign your name on the dotted line, you are a Tory. You are a prince of privilege. You are a reactionary, or you are an economic royalist.

Bear in mind that nobody escapes that. You come ready for your share of it tomorrow morning. The smear department, the national committee, will be working overtime tonight.

That can be taken lightly, and we can pass it over with a smile, but nevertheless to me it is a serious situation in this country, for this reason: It tends to breed class hatred. It tends to set up one group against another, and that is not healthy in this country, and real Democrats do everything they possibly can to escape it.

PRESIDENT EXPRESSED BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT

Let us see what we should really be. The President was speaking at Rollins College in Florida on the 23d of last March, and he voiced a very beautiful sentiment—"Your neighbor," this is what he said: "The good neighbor is not just the man who lives next door to you. The neighbor includes the relationship of your family to the state and to the people who live in the same city, the same county, and the same state, and most important of all to the future of our nation, it must and shall extend to all our neighbors. To our fellow citizens in all states and in all regions which make up the nation."

That is a beautiful sentiment of brotherly love. That promotes the natural instinct of love of neighbor, but when the President reported to congress on the state of the nation as he is required to do by the constitution, he had some different things to say about his neighbors in the nation, and in the course of his long report on the state of the Union he used the following:

"Hatred of entrenched, unscrupulous money-changers. Their own selfishness and their own incompetence could hardly cloak the enslavement of the public malediction that is being spread. I am confident that congress is ready and willing to wage increasing warfare."

GENERAL JOHNSON'S STATEMENT QUOTED

There is a neighborly spirit for you. Well, I do want to give my opinion about it. If I can get an opinion that suits the situation better, I think I ought to give it to you. So I will give you my opinion of the general Johnson. General Johnson is supporting the New Deal in the columns of the metropolitan newspapers, but immediately following that report on the state of the Union over his own signature, that is what he said about it: "A rabble-rouser. A deliberate appeal to passion. The joy of every advocate of class hatred here and in Russia, makes him chief of the factions of discontent."

I am a complete failure of taking the general's explanation of it. In January last I made a speech in Washington. It was not cloaked in general terms. I was specific about what I said and I invited criticism in the event that I may be wrong with respect to the record. I took the Democratic platform as it was adopted in Chicago plank by plank and I read it to the assembled guests and I then pointed to the record. I was either right or I was wrong. If I was wrong why it was a perfectly easy thing for any representative of the New Deal to pick up that same platform and point to the accomplishment of the different planks either by legislation or by executive action.

Did anybody attempt that? They did not. But one of the Democratic leaders undertook to make reply to it, and what was the reply? Well, Al has gone high-bait.

EVERY MAN OWNS A HIGH BAIT, AL SAYS

That is a perfectly good argument for disregarding the sacred promise of the party given to the people in 1932. There is another mistake about it. I have a high-bait. So has every other man than ever existed in the world or a funeral. But I also have a brown derby.

Then there was another very potent and very forceful argument in defense of the New Deal, and that was that Al moved away from the fish market, and he forgot his old neighbors. Well, noting that he is further from the truth than that because there are a good many of them in this building tonight and anybody connected with my organization knows that the door of the Empire State office of mine is open to them just the same as it was when I sat in the clubhouse night after night to meet them while I was a member of the assembly. Nobody can dispute that.

The "Sidewalks of New York" is still in existence, although according to the newspapers, during the progress of the convention at Philadelphia, word came from one of the steering committee to the bandmaster that he should not play "The Sidewalks of New York" any more. That is a democratic song. That is the song that recognizes the existence of Mamie O'Rourke. And in its place was substituted the New Deal anthem: "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Another one of the powerful arguments that was made in defense of the New Deal's position against the Washington speech was my business associates. Well, just let me deal with that for about half a minute. In the true sense of the word, I have no business associates, and by that I mean that I am not engaged with anybody in any business where any of it comes to me. I am a salaried man. I have never been a partner in any business. I am working for a salary. And there isn't any difference between me and any other salaried employee.

WAS FORCED TO WORK WAY UP IN WORLD

Let's see how that comes. After I left Albany for the first time, I came down here to New York. I had no means, I had to go to work. I met them while I was in Albany, and I was working on the second. I had no money to start a business. I had no profession. I had no education to equip me for any kind of a profession. I didn't have a rich aunt or a rich uncle to care for me. I certainly didn't know anything about farming, and even if I did, I didn't have the farm.

And outside of that period of time that I lived in the executive mansion in Albany, I spent my whole lifetime on the waterfront of New York City and I couldn't even be a sailor because I get seasick too easily.

The same thing occurred in 1928 when I returned to New York. Well, of course, I met men of means. I didn't have to wait until I came down to New York to meet them. I met them while I was in Albany, and they are only paying me what they think I am worth. I don't know anybody giving anything away. But let me say this for the benefit of the New Deal critic: Every decision that I ever had to make in my executive capacity has been made in the interest of the men that were working under me.

Of course, I make no apology for being in business. There is nothing dishonorable about business, whether it be large or whether it be small, or about businessmen, whether they be big or whether they be little, but I certainly didn't know anything about looking to the businessmen of this country if we are going to have a permanent solution of the unemployment question, or any return to anything that looks like permanent prosperity. But in the meantime, the American businessman is certainly having a swell time of it getting kicked around all over the lot.

The President was speaking in Syracuse at the state convention, and he spoke about the record at Albany. He is right as hard as he can, but man could possibly for the factory laws, for workmen's compensation, for the child welfare bill. I went around the state of New York and just took pounds of money and in favor before every audience that I could bring within reach of my voice.

And I stand today just exactly where I stood then. But by contrast with the New Deal performance, let it be noted on the record that every one of these laws was passed within the four walls of the state constitution. Except one, and that was the workmen's compensation act.

SMITH ADVOCATED CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE

The first act was declared void under our constitution by the court of appeals, but when the court of appeals rendered that decision, the governor and legislature did not go into a huddle and find fault with the court. What did they do? They proposed an amendment to the constitution and they submitted it to the people of the state and the people of the state ratified it and the workmen's compensation act was thereafter enacted in accordance with the constitution.

Of course, we had an entirely different system in Albany. The President didn't speak about that. Here is the way he handled it: When we Democrats won in Albany, the counsel to the governor and the legislative leaders sat down around the table and we prepared the bills that would carry out the platform promises. But down in Washington there was an entirely different procedure. The bills were drawn by the brain trust in the White House and they were sent down to congress and with them the command: "This must go."

While it is a matter of record that in the newspaper conferences with the newspaper boys, the President himself pointed to the bills that he said were on the "must list." That is something congress must do. Just consider for a moment the independence of the legislative branch of our government. Our representatives, the people who are speaking for us, are told what they must do. If the AAA, NRA, the Guffey coal bill, the Bankhead cotton act, the hot oil bill, and the rest of the unconstitutional enactments were good—if they were good—why is it that the New Deal didn't submit an amendment to the constitution of the United States, so that they could be legally and properly enacted?

I ask the question, and I will answer it myself. The answer to that question is that the New Deal was entirely unwilling to meet the issue of state rights. They preferred to go up a dark alley and do it under cover, and do it in spite of and not with the consent of the people's constitution.

Just a little passing reference for the record before I leave this question of business associates. Let me remind the enthusiastic spokesmen for the New Deal that they find it very convenient to forget that the betwixt a dollar outside of his public salary, he earned it as a lawyer and as a corporation executive in the Wall Street district.

"I HAVE NO BUSINESS," SMITH DECLARES

There is another great answer. It makes a great hit. It has to be more or less whispered and the whisperers all have a grudge. Nothing could be as stupid, nothing could be as silly as that. I have no grudge against the national administration or anybody connected with it. My fault with them is that they betrayed the party. They betrayed me and they fooled the millions of Democrats that I suggested should vote for them.

As far as the President himself is concerned, why, certainly I entertain no grudge or no ill feeling. I supported him every time he was a candidate. He didn't always support me, but I don't feel bad about that. I appointed him to the position in my official family while I was governor, and in 1928 he was governor at Rochester in 1928 over the protest of practically every leader of the party.

I was with him in '30. I placed him in nomination at the Syracuse convention, although I was not a delegate. I brought about a change in the rules of procedure so that I might put him in nomination.

SMITH DECLINES TO ANSWER QUESTION

Question: Won't you please explain why you did not agree with the people that turned against Roosevelt?

Mr. Smith: That is a rather complicated question. You had better put that in better English—I don't get it. One minute, I have the platform. After I get finished, and the processes by which drape is achieved in men's wear are involved and minute. It is not merely a matter of letting cloth hang. The subject is important in considering the new suits for fall, because this season there appears to have been attained a proper modicum of drape, which is neither too loose and baggy nor tight, and form-fitting.

One of the reasons for the increasing popularity of double-breasted jackets has been the success that American tailors have had in adapting the English drape models to domestic tastes, for the ease and good looks of this type of lounge jacket are more in keeping with the relaxed and informal style of the modern man.

The question of drape also enters into the matter of the long-rapel jacket. Last season a great many double-breasted jackets were worn but on the lowest button, in spite of the fact that the tailoring with which the suit had been created did not call for such treatment and consequently the lapel line was graceless and broken. This season, however, nearly all double-breasted jackets have been tailored so that they can button on either the lowest or the waistline button. Style leaders appear to divide their preferences between the two ways of wearing the double-breasted jacket.

The fact of the matter is, I only saw the President once since the day he was inaugurated. He asked me two questions. He asked me what I thought of the appointment of Jimmy Hooey. I told him I thought it was a good appointment, that Mr. Hooey was a friend of mine and an upstanding citizen. Then he inquired for the grandchildren and, of course, I told him they were young and doing well.

SUPPORT WAS GIVEN F. D. R. FOR PRESIDENT

While we are on the subject of grudges, let me talk to you about a grudge on a grand national scale, and that was set forth in the nomination of the chairman of the Democratic national committee when he said you were on the outside unless you voted for Roosevelt before Chicago. If ever there was a narrow, personal and partisan administration, vindictive against everybody that doesn't agree with its leaders, it is the New Deal, and that is the administration cannot be Democratic.

Well, let's go back a little bit. It is 32 years ago this month since I was first nominated for public office. Since that time I ran for public office 21 times and I was elected 19. My name was before the convention at San Francisco as far back as 1920 as a candidate for the nomination for the presidency. I was put in nomination by Congressman Corcoran from New York, and in that convention I seconded the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president.

ROOSEVELT'S AIDES ARE CRITICIZED

Down in old Madison Square Garden for about two and a half weeks, we battled over the nomination. In 1928, finally, in Houston in the state of Texas, I was nominated and I traveled 38,000 miles through this country spreading the gospel of Democracy, and I can say without ego that I planted the seed that brought the eventual victory of 1932.

It occurs to me—and I think it would occur to you—that what all of that experience I should know who the Democratic leaders are. I should know who the men are that guide their time and their energy to the party. But I am compelled to say, who is Ickes, who is Wallace, who is Hopkins, and in the name of that that is good and holy, who is Tugwell, and where did he blow from?

I could mention dozens of others, but these are keymen. These are the men who sit around the table for the fixation of national policy, and I don't think one of them ever read the Democratic platform. Why, I don't have to tell it to you. You know it as well as I do. When this administration came into power on the 4th of March, 1933, the whole country was with them.

The President of the United States was the Count of Monte Cristo. He was sitting pretty on top of the world, the world belonged to him. He could have commanded the best brains in this country. No man put any more service under him than they could refuse to Wilson during the period of the war. A man was ever given greater power by congress, and look at what we got.

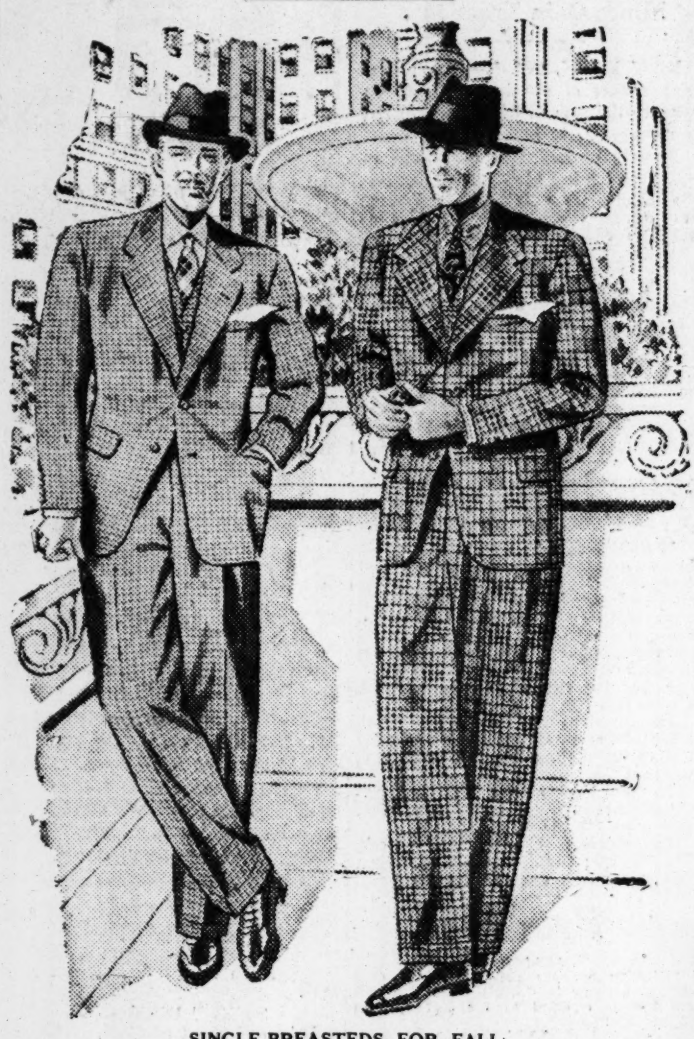

Why, I think our friend ought to get the good neighbor treatment. We ought to say good-night.

Well now, I just happened to pick up the paper yesterday and here is where I got that thought from. Here is what the president of Dartmouth College said about it:

"In place of leaders of balanced judgment and capacity for discriminating counsel, the New Deal has elevated to many of its foremost positions of authority and influence in this time of crisis men of no better than second rate qualification

Autumn Town Suits Have Moderate Drape

Double-Breasted Jackets Receive Added Impetus From Popularity of Easy-Fitting Effects—Peaked Lapels Mark New S. B. Model—Jackets Are Longer.

At the left is a two-button, single-breasted, notched-lapel jacket in indistinct-check effect and at the right three-button, notched-lapel, single-breasted jacket suit in a Glenurquhart check. Note in each of these suits the easy-fitting drape, the longer jacket, the tapering sleeves and trousers.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD, Editor of Men's Fashions.

Drape in men's clothing is a very difficult thing from drape in bedroom curtains. As a matter of fact, the processes by which drape is achieved in men's wear are involved and minute. It is not merely a matter of letting cloth hang. The subject is important in considering the new suits for fall, because this season there appears to have been attained a proper modicum of drape, which is neither too loose and baggy nor tight, and form-fitting.

One of the reasons for the increasing popularity of double-breasted jackets has been the success that American tailors have had in adapting the English drape models to domestic tastes, for the ease and good looks of this type of lounge jacket are more in keeping with the relaxed and informal style of the modern man.

The question of drape also enters into the matter of the long-rapel jacket. Last season a great many double-breasted jackets were worn but on the lowest button, in spite of the fact that the tailoring with which the suit had been created did not call for such treatment and consequently the lapel line was graceless and broken. This season, however, nearly all double-breasted jackets have been tailored so that they can button on either the lowest or the waistline button. Style leaders appear to divide their preferences between the two ways of wearing the double-breasted jacket.

Three-Button S. B. Gains Favor.

Single-breasted jackets, perhaps because of the increasing competition of their double-breasted cousins, have been the simpler ones, such as the gusset-sleeve and the bi-wing.

Meanwhile, more and more men are being converted to high-waisted trousers with pleats on either side in front. Many smartly dressed men, too, continue to order their trousers with the side-fastened fly which they prefer on the grounds of neatness and convenience.

Robert Fairchild will present another article on fall fashions for men, in next Friday's Constitution.

and with little experience in dealing with affairs of great magnitude."

NEW DEAL POLICIES NOT DEMOCRATIC

Well what is the reason for that? There is a reason for everything we come back to what I said a few minutes ago; that is not a Democratic administration. It is never referred to as such by its own people. It is called a New Deal. You don't hear of Democratic policies, you hear of Roosevelt policies. Why? I think we have to refine the people that live in New York that in 1933 the New Deal party put its own ticket in the field in this city against the regular ticket of the Democratic organization.

And does the New Deal always support Roosevelt in primary and general elections? Not at all. What about Nebraska? What about Wisconsin, where men of opposite political faith use themselves progressives and put the stamp of approval upon the New Deal, receive the strength and the power of the so-called Democratic administration? Why, even a Communist with wire whiskers and a torch in his hands is welcome, so long as he signs the dotted line.

While we are at that, what about the mayor of New York? Good neighbors now. What about the mayor? He is a New Dealer. He speaks a large part of his time in Washington and recently he went out west some place to meet up with the big game. He is going to stand behind the New Deal. Is LaGuardia a Democrat? If he is, then I am a Chinaman with a hair-cut. Ask yourself this question: Is the New Deal right and is everybody else in the United States wrong?

NEWSPAPERS MAY WITHDRAW AID

How about the Democratic newspapers? The Lord knows there are not many of them in the United States north of the Mason and Dixon line, but within the last two weeks four of the most prominent Democratic newspapers that stood behind the Democratic party in season and out of season, victory or defeat, have declared in their columns that they have gone as far as it is possible for them to go with the New Deal administration.

The new, multi-colored stripings which I discussed a couple of weeks ago. Another single-breasted style which is finding increased favor this autumn is the notched-lapel jacket with three buttons instead of two. This buttons on the center or waistline button.

However, let us return to the general characteristics of all the new jackets for fall. Drape, as we have already seen, has been incorporated in modified form into both single and double-breasted styles and is the dominant note in the fall, 1936, clothing. There is a broad shoulder effect but in so ameliorated a version as to approximate natural shoulders. The chest is full. The entire construction of the jacket is softer, easier fitting, more comfortable both to wear and to look at.

Fancy Backs Are Out for Town.

Jackets this fall also are slightly longer, which accentuates the drape effect. A more tapering sleeve than has been heretofore worn, but the general rule, at the same time the trousers' tapers helps to give the wearer more height and a trimmer appearance.

The sports-back jacket passes out of the town wear picture. The distinction between town and country wear is at last clearly recognized and few men who are at all conscious of style will commit the sartorial crime of wearing the fancy-back jacket for town or business wear.

For country wear and sports wear, however, the mixed ensemble, in which the jacket may be of the pleated-back variety, continues strong as ever. The leading types of sports jackets are the simpler ones, such as the gusset-sleeve and the bi-wing.

Meanwhile, more and more men are being converted to high-waisted trousers with pleats on either side in front. Many smartly dressed men, too, continue to order their trousers with the side-fastened fly which they prefer on the grounds of neatness and convenience.

(Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution)

You can't beat that. That was published as an interview in the Washington Post and on the radio by the senator. I regard Senator Glass as one of the leading Democrats of this country.

I owe him a very personal debt of gratitude because he battled for me in 1928 in the state of Virginia against a hopeless proposition. Senator Bailey, Senator Ashurst and our own senator, Senator Copeland, of New York, have all in their time said harsher and more cruel things about the New Deal party than I did. What about all the men who started out with the New Deal and couldn't last any longer? There is a long list of that that would take me a long while, beginning with Peek, and you read Peek's story in the Saturday Evening Post, and you have something worth while spending an afternoon reading. Read what Jim Warburg said and he was a trusted financial adviser and was a delegate from this country to the Monetary conference in London; and he said all things, he sure to read what Douglas said, who was the director of the budget.

Well, we are coming near the end of the radio time. Let me just say this: If the administration in Washington, no matter what it desires to call itself, had lived up to that Democratic platform that was adopted in Chicago in 1932, and if it had remained true to the principles of Jefferson that have kept the Democratic party alive in this country after one bitter defeat after another, if the President himself had made good on his promises, I would not be on this platform tonight.

There would be no coalition of American voters opposing the national administration. I know where I would be. I would be at the national Democratic committee headquarters where I have been for so many years, ready to battle for success, but I can't see how anybody can expect me to battle for or even defend a failure.

Here we are, up to our necks in debt; 22,000,000 people getting government relief. Millions out of employment; the farm problem unsolved. After all the power and all the money spent, we find ourselves where? On the dead end street called failure, dismal, dull, dark, drear failure.

Newton Baker, the secretary of war in the cabinet of Wilson, recently delivered a speech before the American Legion and he said in his speech that the proudest boast of the ancient world was "I am a Roman citizen." Well, you remember the reaction. "Rome, thou hast been a tender friend to me. Rome that sat upon her seven hills and from off her throne of beauty, she ruled the world. In my time to be a Roman was greater than to be a king."

In this troubled world today, let it be our proud boast, "I am an American citizen. America, you have been a tender friend to me. You have brought gifts of opportunity to me, and to be an American is greater than to be a king." And I am an American before I am a Democrat, before I am a Republican, or before I am anything.

I have never in my long public career ducked, dodged or pussyfooted. I have never found fault with anything unless I was prepared to suggest a remedy, and while I may differ on matters of traditional party regard these things in the crisis of today as merely my own. I am satisfied as to the basic and fundamental needs of this country, sound and trustworthy, and can be relied upon to cherish and preserve the great principles upon which the country was founded and in my belief, without them it cannot endure.

I firmly believe that the remedy for all the ills that we are suffering from today is the election of Alfred M. Landau.

SAYS U. S. IN BEST SHAPE

ESTIS, Fla., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Fred P. Cone, Democratic nominee for governor, said at a rally here today that the "United States government is in the best shape it has ever been since the constitution was written."

Dirigible Smoothly Rides Out Storm On First Leg of World Air Trip

Reporter Marvels at Hindenburg's Equipment; Finds Ship's Passengers Late Sleepers; Expected in Frankfurt on Schedule.

By LEO KIERAN. (Copyright, 1936, by North American News, Inc.)

ON BOARD THE DIRIGIBLE HINDENBURG, Oct. 1.—(By Wire-)

less)—Smooth sailing, despite heavy weather, has marked the first day's progress of this reporter's around-the-world trip by commercial air transport.

Through fog and rain the Hindenburg has skimmed faithfully along the murky Atlantic since her takeoff from Lakehurst, N. J., Wednesday night. Headwinds have reduced the big airship's speed to around 40 knots most of the time, but the crew is confident we'll reach Frankfurt on scheduled time Saturday morning.

All day we rode along about 600 feet above the heavy sea, white with foam from huge waves. We have been fighting bad weather from the time of our departure, although we headed due east from Lakehurst to avoid the worst of the storm. However, we now should make better time as we have passed out of the storm area and the ship has been put on her course directly northeast to her German port.

Despite the wind and the heavy rain, which sent steady streams across the windows, the roll of the ship has been very slight—in fact she rode the weather better than the best of ocean liners. In several thousand miles of air travel, I have never seen a transport so well equipped.

Our first sight of land was off Halifax, but it was merely some lonely rocks and forbidding reefs, with no vegetation and only a few itinerant birds. Following dinner, a dozen or so of the passengers gathered in the a lone fly in my stateroom bumping a ride to Germany.

Most of the passengers slept late and I later found that several of them, including Major Lester D. Gardner, of the American Scientific Aero-nautical Society, had stayed up until 4 a. m.

I am sharing a cabin with Lieutenant Commander F. H. Gilmer, United States naval observer on the trip, who is showing an intense interest in the ship's operations.

IS LISTED SUICIDE

CLEARWATER, Fla., Oct. 1.—(AP) D. R. Williams, 49, former Bartow resident and one time druggist in Florence, Ala., died late today from a bullet wound in the right temple which Magistrate F. I. Gates said was self-inflicted.

Barrel-Cruising Sailor Towed Into Port Again

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(UP) Ernest Riegnaski, who wants to sail the Atlantic in a barrel to see whether he or the red-headed world is "goofy," was towed to port by a coast guard board today after spending a night bobbing around on Lake Erie.

The barrel—a silver-colored craft with a red nose—shipped considerable water, the pilot said, and he was unable to consume the supplies he had taken aboard. They consisted of a case of beer, a pint of whisky, 10 gallons of water, some sausage and bread.

Riegnaski built the barrel with his bonus money and hopes to sail the Atlantic.

"I'm not giving up," he said. "The world thinks I'm goofy. I think the world is goofy. Now it's a contest to find out who is right."

Ante-Bellum Silver Will Grace Attractive Home of Newlyweds

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. Clifton Benjamin Wilburn, who was Eloise Gaines until Tuesday evening, begins housekeeping in Brooklyn, N. Y., her attractive apartment will be graced by handsome wedding presents reminiscent of ante-bellum days of the old south. Handsome and valuable silver which was given the bride was chosen with special care by the donors, who knew of her taste and love for antiques.

Her dining table will be offset to beautiful advantage by her flat silver of the colonial design, which bears not only sentimental, but also historical interest. It comes to the bride through her maternal side from her great-grandfather, the late William Quarterman Baker, who, like many others, was forced to seek refuge from Sherman's fiery and devastating march to the sea through Georgia. Fleeing from his home, Mr. Baker was able to take with him the family silver, which was hidden, along with other valuables, when he and his family sought safety and refuge in the Okefenokee swamp in south Georgia.

Virginia will be represented in the apartment by handsome silver colonial candlesticks which belonged to the pretty bride's paternal grandmother, who, as Mary Louise Lewis, resided in a colonial home in the valley of Virginia. She married Dr. F. H. Gaines, of Decatur, who was the beloved president of Agnes Scott College.

At the wedding reception Tuesday of Eloise and Clifton Wilburn, their guests adhered to the custom of cutting the bride's cake. If symbols found in the slices ring true, Ruby Hut-ton, of Abington, Va., will be the next bride, for in her slice was the ring. But there shall be a bit of rivalry, as it was Martha Foster into whose arms fell the bride's bouquet.

Virginia Gaines, the bride's sister, cut the heart in the cake, and the dime, signifying great wealth, was found by Elizabeth Alexander. Rather unstable was the fact that Mary Pritchard cut the bachelor button, meaning single blessedness. Anne Egan was assured of her good fortune in the hands of Lady Luck by cutting the wishbone.

LITTLE Anne Dodd Warren, daughter of the Green Dodd Warrens, celebrated her sixth birthday yesterday with a novel party. The little girl's mother, who is noted for her ingenuity and originality, bid the boys and girls, who were of same age as Anne, to come to the party clad in gingham dresses and overalls. They assembled in the rear yard of the Warren home on Wyckoff road, which had been transformed into a barnyard scene. Mrs. Warren omitted nothing that would make the setting realistic and typical of one to be found on a farm.

Live ponies, billy goats, baby pigs, chickens, ducks and calves were only added to the realism of the scene, but they afforded the children much merriment. Especially when they were allowed to ride the ponies and hitch wagons to the goats for rides around the yard.

A unique feature was the country store arranged in one side of the Warren garage, with Val-de-mar Gude acting as storekeeper. The children were given pocket-books full of play-money with which they could buy candy, apples, ice cream cones, pink lemonade, peanuts, popcorn, etc., at the country store.

Anne's dollhouse was transformed into "The House of Magic" where Billy Parker and Norris Broyles, disguised in long black beards and coats with tails, impersonated Professor Parker and Professor Broyles and read each little guest's future.

An orchestra composed of pickaninies attired in overalls and red bandannas furnished music for the party and for the old-fashioned square dance in which Anne and her little guests participated.

Without a doubt the party was one of the most rollicking affairs that Sally Forth has ever had described to her. Mrs. Warren is largely responsible for its success, but she was ably assisted in making the event an unforgettable occasion by Anne's grandmothers, Mrs. I. B. Williams and Mrs. William C. Warren Sr.

THERE are many ways to extend greetings of "Happy Birthday," but to Mrs. Harry Lange goes Sally Forth's congratulations for inaugurating a novel method. Wednesday was her husband's birthday, and being a very busy intern at one of the local hospitals, medical duties keep him away from his home the entire day. His lovely young wife, despairing of a way to extend felicitations to him, chose the fastest and most direct method of reaching him, by sending a telegram to the hospital, which said: "Your wife wishes you a happy birthday."

SPEAKING of birthdays, Sally feels exceptionally interested in the forthcoming celebration of General James L. Driver, whose 80th milestone will be passed on Sunday in a quiet manner at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Lewis, in Hapeville. General Driver is one of the "youngest" of the boys who wore the gray and his defiance of Father Time's annual visit keeps him forever possessive of the gay and happy abandon of youth and enthusiasm.

In addition to his being one of Sally Forth's favorite people, General Driver counts his friends by the hundreds, and his interest in things of current nature makes him a conversationalist of no mean note. His discussions and comments are tempered by his knowledge of events of days gone by, which adds additional flavor to any subject he chooses to discuss.

Remnants of the "thin gray line" of the stirring days of the sixties, assembled in annual convention, would not be complete without the presence of General Driver, who is the past commander of the Georgia Division, U. C. V. On Tuesday he leaves for Augusta to join his comrades of those days when they gathered around campfires for their 43rd reunion. Therefore, Sally steals a march on General Driver's many friends by today wishing him "Happy Birthday and Many Happy Returns of the Day."

These dolls, dressed by Macon alumnae, were the cynosure of all eyes during the commencement centennial celebration.

Alumnae dressed in old-fashioned costumes will serve as hostesses throughout the week.

In contrast will be shown the modern college girl typical of the new college at Rivoli. Girls dressed in riding togs and other sports clothes will emphasize the tennis, golf, horseback riding, swimming and other features enjoyed by students of today.

Mrs. Travis A. Stephenson is general chairman of the exhibit, assisted by Mrs. W. M. Garrard, decorations; Mrs. George Elyen and Miss Josephine Lott, personnel; Mrs. N. W. Gibson, properties. Many of the outstanding exhibits from the centennial collection will be sent to Atlanta for the exhibit.

State Federation President Urges Women to Raise $10,000 Fund

By Bessie S. Stafford, Editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. A. B. Conger's regime as president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will be full of valuable suggestions for the advancement of club activities. This fact was made evident when she made her excellent address at the meeting of the executive board held yesterday in Atlanta. Foremost among Mrs. Conger's suggestions was her request that state clubwomen raise $10,000 for Tallulah Falls school maintenance.

She stressed the necessity of meeting this financial obligation because this sum was allocated to federated women by the Tallulah board of trustees, of which Mrs. John K. Otley, of Atlanta is president. Underprivileged mountain children have been educated at Tallulah for 26 years, and the school is an outstanding and priceless possession of Georgia Federation, has received national recognition in educational fields.

Second Club Institute. Mrs. Conger was applauded by 71 women from every section of Georgia, when she announced that Dr. S. V. The meeting at 7 o'clock follows an afternoon field trip under direction of Miss Berna Jarard, chairman of field study. The three phases of identification in the field will be given by Don Eyles, Mrs. Hugh Harris and Norman Giles Jr. A field trip is also planned for the morning.

The only shooting done on these bird hunts is with a camera.

The club is the only mixed group allowed the privileges of camping at Highland, and during the spring and fall migration season treasured facts on Georgia birds have been gathered at Camp Highland.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

THE OPENING, RESPONDING, AND DEFENDING HANDS.

The opening bid contains about three honor tricks, and often more, which usually precludes any game for the opponents and offers support for partner's bids.

The responding hand can lean rather heavily upon the better-than-average strength shown by his partner. With as little as one honor trick or some semblance of shape in the hand he can venture into the open. Two and a half honor tricks look quite promising, and three honor tricks (provided the hands fit) ought to bring the game down always, with a slam not far off.

The defending hand already heard the bad news. His strategy is dominated by the fact that the opponents have initiated the attack, presumably showing a fairly strong hand. The danger of penalty is at the heels of every bid he may make. But, although hopes for slams and games in minor suits are at the wrong end of the binoculars, the chances of major suit and no-trump games, especially the former, are by no means shut out.

The main point about these bidding divisions is that, in some cases, the same strategic object will require a different kind of technique to interpret it.

If you hold Spades none, Hearts A Q J 10, Diamonds K Q J 10 8, Clubs A K Q J you make a forcing two bid if you are the opening hand. You achieve the same purpose if you are the responding hand after your partner opened the bidding by jumping to three diamonds. If you are the defending hand against the opponents' spade bid you will bid over the opponents' one spade, two spades (which also is forcing). The object in all three cases is the same: To show a powerful hand. The technique, however, is entirely different.

The bidding:

South West North East
1 diamond 1 heart 1 spade Pass
6 diamonds Pass Pass Pass

There was a curious consistency in South's bidding, which is the only thing that can be said for it. Like a great many players who take a ridiculous pride in opening with a forcing bid only once or twice in a bridge lifetime, he apparently was so impressed with his own eagerness that, when the bidding returned to him, he decided to electrify partner and opponents with a spectacular bid.

The six diamond contract was defeated two tricks and, whether or not the declarer solaced himself with the bitter thought that the distribution was against him, the fact remains that there was nothing unusual in finding four trumps to a jack in either hand, nor in finding the adverse spades distributed three and one.

Regardless of this distribution, six spades, obviously the correct contract, would have been a laydown on any opening lead and against any defense.

Ammy's diamond suit could have been established by a single ruff. The difference between going down two at six diamonds and making six spades was over 2,500 points at the end of the rubber, which the opponents, justly enough, proceeded to

Here Is How to Get Untanned and Get Your Skin Softened

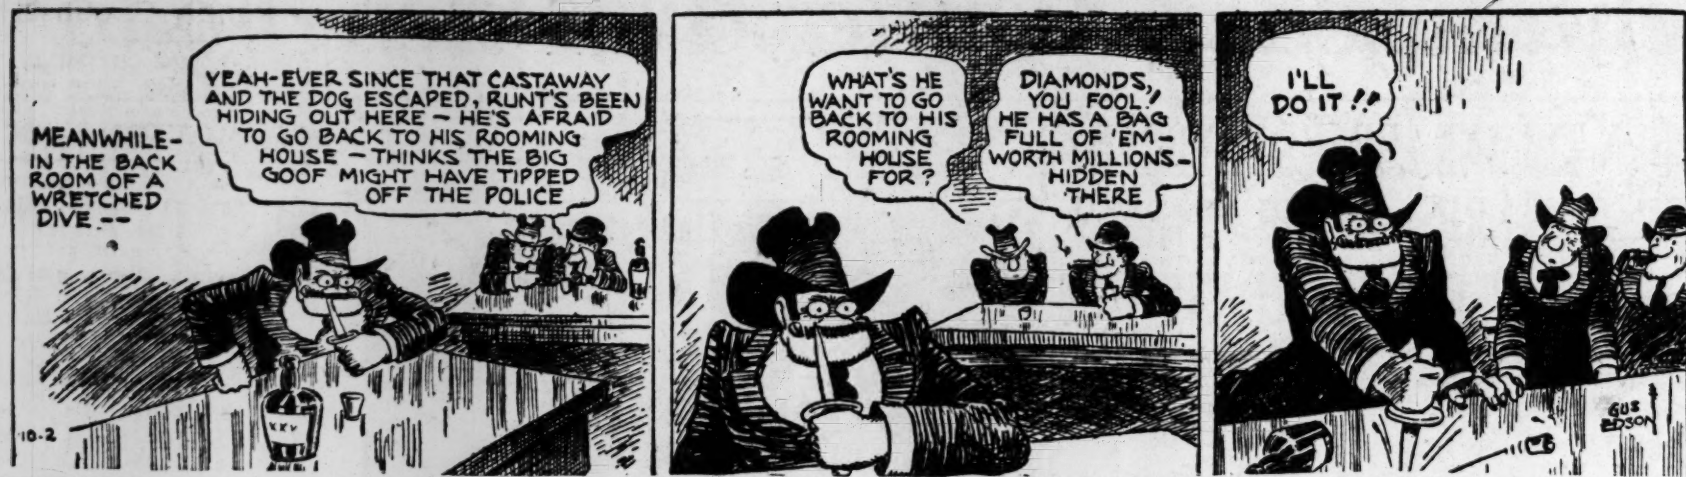

By MIGNON.
(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

It is just about time that some of the girls who spent most of their summer on the beach and got thoroughly bronzed begin wishing they hadn't. It is all right to get sun-browned as a berry in the summer time, if at the same time you keep your skin soft. But somehow a girl who is having a good time on the beach has an idea that nature is going to do all of this for her—an erroneous opinion.

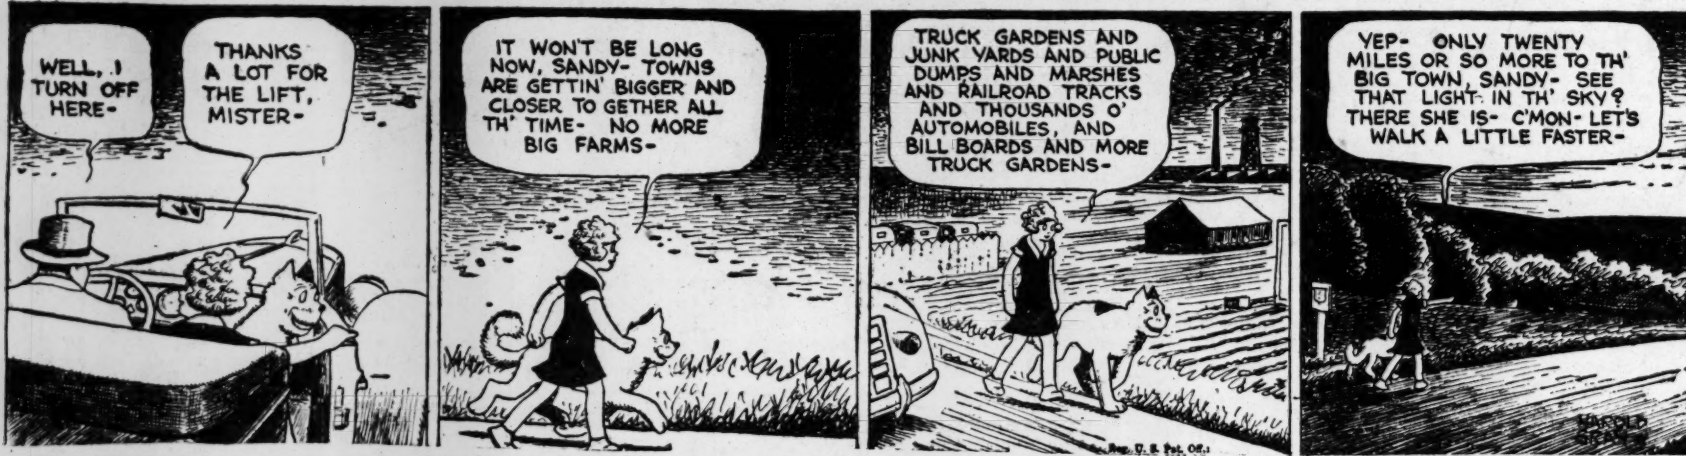

One of the old-fashioned creams for bleaching is lemon cream which I have always found entirely satisfactory. Some women tell me they can't use lemon because it doesn't agree with their skin. If this is true, I'll tell you of another one to substitute. But I have a sensitive skin and a lemon cream has always

THE RETURN OF JOAN

BY JOSEPH McCORD

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

"It's something more than that, Mac," Joan insisted. "I feel it. He needs help. And, for some reason, he's depending on me. He told me that I was the one good thing in his life. I suppose it sounds presumptuous, but I knew he wanted to ask me if there was any chance I could ever... care. He wouldn't ask that. But he did say that he hoped I would want to tell him something... some day."

"And that was all?"

"Everything, Mac. After that, he treated me as he would any friend. He never sought my company alone... in fact, I have felt he has tried to avoid me. You remember the day he drove me to Waples?"

"Yes."

"I wanted you to go with us... and you wouldn't. I was so sure he wanted to talk to me alone that I was almost in a panic. I'm afraid I was rather hysterical. But all he said was when I left him, that he had hoped there might be something I wanted to tell him. He was so kind... it made me feel rather cheap. Maybe it's my conscience, Mac. I don't know. But I feel that I owe him something. Even though I don't care. I can't get away from it. I've tried. It isn't reasonable. Perhaps it's being a woman... but it's there."

"Yes," Deeds admitted soberly, "it's there. I can see that. And I can't change it. As long as you feel that way, I guess there's nothing to do."

"But he needs help, Mac!" Joan's voice was almost pleading. "I feel it. If only we knew..."

"Do you mean you're giving me a part in it, Joan? To help, I mean?"

"I thought you knew, Mac."

"All right. Let's put all our cards down. There's more to this than you think, unless I'm badly mistaken. We may as well line up the facts and see where we get off. Ready?"

"Of course."

"You know as well as I do that there's some funny stuff being pulled around this place. I'm about ready to eliminate everybody but those phony docs, Gene... you and me."

"You think my father's clear?"

"Yes, I do. I think somebody has been putting the screws on him with financial offers... nothing more serious."

"I'm glad," Joan said frankly. "Now what about the rest of... us?"

"Don't misunderstand my first question, Joan. I want to get it in the record. What do you know about this guy that calls himself Sloan Ellidge? How well do you know him?"

"I don't know Sloan Ellidge at all, Mac. I never saw the man until I came here. I've scarcely ever talked to him. So what?"

"You as much as told me so before."

Deeds explained hurriedly. "That's why I was all at sea when I found he had something on you... or thought he had."

"There was nothing he could know about me that would make a slight difference. Except... Gene."

"That must be the answer."

"I have a right to know."

"I can see clear on that now. I'm going to," Deeds paused to light a cigarette, then continued frowningly: "It goes back to that day I got the bill about the public bath. That's the day the day of the public bath. The three of us came back together from Waples Beach. I told you that. Well, those two crooks just about had time for a conference, after John read Bill's letter, when Sloan popped in to see me. He was all set for business... No, I'm a little mixed. It was the day of the public bath. That's right. I had told you my suspicions about the letter. You remember?"

"Of course. What did Sloan say?"

"Started in by accusing me of not minding my business. Admitted the alias and gave a bum excuse about trying to hide from a horde of patients who wouldn't let him rest. Blamed his brother for being a bungler. John doesn't rate so high with him."

"Go on."

"He thought it would be nice if I kept my mouth shut. He even sug- gested there would be something in it, if I'd play ball. There was a time when I might have fallen for that."

"I heard you tell John that he threatened you. How and why?"

"Joan, there's something about him... I can't explain. I'm not very scary, but he can look at you in a way that makes you feel cold in the pit of the stomach. When he mentioned your name, I thought I'd break him in two. And I didn't even try. I still don't let it."

"I'm glad you didn't. I want to know what he said about me."

"That's it. He really didn't say any- thing... just a chilly hint that he could say something you wouldn't like. And I wouldn't like. He explained that I was too fond of you to do anything to hurt you and... well, confound it, he had me there! He was so sure of me that he told me I was going to act as if nothing had happened. And if I had some cute idea of taking it on the lam from here and starting something, to forget it. I never believed in that Triby stuff, but I... I don't know what to make of it."

"Did he really threaten to harm you?" Joan demanded in a low voice.

"Oh, he rambled a bit, about methods. But you heard John last night. He insists the old boy's gone soft in the head. Maybe he has. I'd like to think so, but I don't. John was trying to clear himself. He isn't half the fool he looks to be."

"I've felt all along that Dr. Sloan was dangerous," Joan admitted slowly. "I'm sure of it now. Oh, you must be careful! But, Mac... I'm wonder- ing..."

"So am I."

"About that threat, I mean. If Dr. Sloan knows about Gene and me, why would he think it a club to hold over you? Our marriage was legal... except that we lied about our ages. He could make things pretty difficult for me here. We came straight home after being married, as I told you, but I never told father and mother. But I could face it, if I had to. I'm almost sure that Gene would tell the truth."

"That's one thing that I couldn't answer for sure... until now. I believe Ellidge wants to avoid that very thing. So he wrapped it in mystery. The one way he could harm you would be to expose Gene, then drag you in on it because you're Gene's wife."

"What do you mean, expose Gene?"

"He's got something on the boy. I'm convinced of it. Gene brought those birds here. He's mixed up in something, and they've got him where they want him. Gene was drunk enough... or something... at one time to give Sloan a hint about you. I don't believe John's wise to it, or he'd know he was wasting his time in trying to cultivate your dad. I've an idea that it's right up Sloan's alley... helps to com- plicate things, you see. Have you any guesses as to what Gene is doing? He's making a lot of trips, somewhere."

"I've thought of that. But he doesn't seem to have much of anything to do with the Ellidges, Mac. I almost never see him talking with either one of them."

"Just the same, that's the line we have to follow. There are too many coincidences. For instance, Gene tells me last night that he's about due for a rest... going to take things easier and have a good time. He said in about a week or ten days."

"Well, Sloan told me that I was to keep my horns pulled in for a week or ten days. After that, it wouldn't be any difference what I did or said. What do you make of that?"

"I don't know. It does sound... queer?"

"Too queer for there not to be some connection. Something is going to be pulled off. I made no promises to Ellidge. And now, I don't have to worry on your account... since I know what it's all about."

"Mac, do you believe that Gene is in some danger?"

"I don't know what to believe. With your permission, I'm going to try to find out."

"If Gene is in trouble... I've got to help him, if I can," Joan said soberly. "Please don't blame me. I can't help it..."

"I know."

"But I can't bear the idea of your getting in danger. And there is danger! I feel it and... oh, it's all mixed up! I don't know what to do."

Joan's face reflected her deep anxiety.

"You had one idea when you came out here on the beach to meet me... maybe it was the right one," she said. "You were going away."

"My stuff's packed," Deeds said slowly.

"Are you... even sug- gested there would be something in it, if I'd play ball. There was a time when I might have fallen for that."

"I heard you tell John that he threatened you. How and why?"

"Joan, there's something about him... I can't explain. I'm not very scary, but he can look at you in a way that makes you feel cold in the pit of the stomach. When he mentioned your name, I thought I'd break him in two. And I didn't even try. I still don't let it."

Rain Halts 2d Game; Schumacher, Gomez To Pitch Today

BRITAIN'S STAR IS REAL THREAT FOR GOLF TITLE

Miss Barton Enters Semi-Finals With Miley, Hemphill, Orcutt.

SUMMIT, N. J., Oct. 1.—(AP)—American golf seemed headed today for its second international final of the year as Pamela (Pam) Barton, stocky British titleholder, and three Americans advanced to the semi-finals of the United States women's golf championship.

Equally probable was the prospect that the 19-year-old titian-haired Miss Barton, the most serious foreign threat since Enid Wilson, might become the first invader in 23 years to carry the trophy across the big water hole. "Pam" was joined in the penultimate round by Marion Miley, a black-haired youngster from the blue grass regions of Lexington, Ky.; Kathryn Hemphill, who only a few years ago was the No. 1 player on the Columbia, S. C., High school boys' golf team, and the veteran Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., a finalist nine years ago. In tomorrow's matinee Miss Barton will meet Miss Miley, and Miss Hemphill will play Mrs. Orcutt.

BEATS BARRETT. Miss Barton ground out a 4 and 3 victory over Beatrice Barrett, Minneapolis' latest sensation since the collapse of Patty Berg; Miss Miley trounced Mrs. Carl Donner, of Springfield, N. J., 5 and 4; Miss Hemphill rammed down a 40-foot putt for a birdie 4 to beat Mrs. William F. Shepherd, of Los Angeles, on the 19th hole, and Mrs. Crews eliminated the veteran Kansas City links woman, Mrs. Opal Hill, 3 and 2.

After three days of rain the quarter-finalists received a welcome break from the weather. The skies were leaden, but it didn't rain. However, the Canoe Brook Country Club fairways were spongy and the players had to do a lot of digging. As the result, with one exception, the scoring ran higher than to be expected from top-flight contestants.

CREWS IN FORM. The lone exception was Mrs. Crews. Except for butchering the 12th hole, where she lost three strokes to par, Maureen gave a truly championship performance under the duress and looked to veteran observers to be in better form than when she lost her chance at the title in 1927 to Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn.

With birdies on the second and seventh holes to offset bogeys on the third and ninth, Mrs. Hill, who yesterday went out in 30 to have Patty lose down at the turn, experienced the ever-fertile down after a good match. She was out in 45, missing easy putts and getting into all kinds of trouble in the rough on traps.

They started back sensationally with birdies on the 10th, Mrs. Hill sinking a 415-footer and Maureen a putt from 10 feet. Mrs. Hill's putter continued to throw sparks as she caned a 100-footer for a par 5 to win the 11th where Maureen's approach was 50 yards short of the green and she chipped up weakly.

Crackers, Warren Battle to 3-3 Tie

Although Dave Harris and Nig Lipson clouted home runs, the best that the Crackers could do against Warren last night was a 3-3 tie in the Warren field.

The Crackers had the game apparently won until the ninth inning when the Warren team scored three runs and tied the score.

The tie game is slated to be played off at a later date.

And what did Mr. Jack Meagher think about the Tulane game at New Orleans on Saturday? Plenty, as you may have guessed. When disturbed at his home in the "Loveliest Village," he remained the same phlegmatic person who took over a badly disrupted football situation at Auburn and came up with a good team—calm, unexcited.

"We are probably a bit overrated by some of our friends," he said. "And undoubtedly Tulane is underrated."

"How much stronger, if any, do you think you are than last year?"

"Not any."

"Why?"

"We had reserves last year we haven't got this fall. Last year we were lucky going through without any tackle injuries. We lost a key tackle and we lost Mitchell. He could do a lot of things in the backfield. We haven't tackle reserve to speak of and we could use another fullback."

"All in all, I think we must be rated about as we were last year."

The Auburn coach was getting ready to pack up for the trip to New Orleans and the Tulane game. You may go along on what Jack Meagher says. He never moans or beats the air and he will do something no other coach will do—come out on a pair of verbal flat feet and say something definite.

The average football coach would have us believe even the warm-up games to be fraught with danger. Jack Meagher expects his team to win. But he does not expect to win by any wide margin.

THAT TULANE GAME. The Tulane-Auburn game is perhaps the stand-out conference contest of this week.

The day I saw Tulane at work in New Orleans the squad looked only fair. Yet it beat Mississippi, a team which had been heralded as one of the better elevens in Dixie.

I rather expect Tulane to come in at Auburn with a lot of fight. It will take a lot of football to beat Tulane.

No other conference team seems to be in any danger. Georgia Tech should run up about as many points on Sewanee as were scored on Presbyterian last week.

Sewanee remained football honest until scholarships were legalized. And the scholarship help is on the mountain as freshmen this year. So Tech will take the Sewanee eleven in stride, which is only what is to be expected and which is no criticism of the Tigers.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES. It is quite a week for our boys to be carrying the Dixie football flag into foreign fields.

The Commodores from Vanderbilt move into Chicago this week. And should win. Which happens to be a minority report. Most of the boys will string along with the big-city team.

But Rus Cohen, former backfield coach at Vanderbilt, who left with other coaches after Ray Morrison was appointed head coach, was through Atlanta a day or so ago. He joined Hek Clarke, of Sewanee, in sounding a warning about the Commodores.

"Vanderbilt and L. S. U.," he said, "are the outstanding teams in the Southeastern Conference. They have a lot of fine players at Vanderbilt and they will be even stronger next year."

Reports have it, in this connection, that most of the Texas high school stars of last season are in the Commodore corral.

At any rate, the Commodores should take the Chicago Maroons. I'll never forget an afternoon when the Commodores did not take the Maroons. There was a fellow named Higgins playing fullback—he was the guy who put the thunder into the Thundering Herd. I met him that afternoon—frequently—but saw little of him. It is a bit difficult to see when one has been knocked on one's face.

Ole Miss goes up to Philadelphia to play Pop Warner's Temple Owls.

The dope is for Temple to win. But the job will be continued on Second Sports Page.

AUBURN-TULANE CLASH FEATURES TILTS THIS WEEK

Tech Meets Sewanee, Bulldogs Play Furman, Vols Engage Tarheels.

By Kenneth Gregory. Associated Press Sports Writer.

The 13 gridiron machines of the Southeastern conference roll into action this week and in a series of battles involving championship hopes, intersectional glory and tests of power against opposition from the neighboring Southern conference.

Football games of Tulane and Auburn clash at New Orleans in the major intersectional attraction, while Mississippi, Vanderbilt and Louisiana State invade foreign territory for important intersectional engagements.

FANCY LATERALS. Mississippi's Rebels, upset 7-0 by Tulane's Green Wave in the initial combat of the Southeastern championship race, went east to meet the Temple Owls tonight (Friday). Vanderbilt traveled to Chicago for a bout with the University of Chicago and Louisiana State dropped down into Texas to play the Texas Longhorns, at Austin.

The fans were promised an exhibition of fancy laterals at Atlanta, where Coach Bill Alexander's Georgia Tech Engineers open their conference campaign against the Sewanee Tigers. Alexander said he probably would turn loose his highly publicized passing attack, although it likely will not be needed to subdue the little squad from Sewanee.

Georgia Tech plays Kentucky a week hence in a game forecast as the tip-off to the comparative strength of these elevens in the championship picture. Both teams are rated highly in conference ranks.

Coach Chet Wynne's Kentucky Wildcats have a tough assignment on tonight Saturday, engaging the Virginia Military Cadets at Lexington in an inter-conference fray. The Kentucky eleven had little trouble disposing of Maryville and Xavier in opening games.

VOLS FACE TARHEELS. In another important Southeastern duel, Tennessee's Volunteers invade Chapel Hill to tangle with the University of North Carolina Tarheels. Tennessee's light and inexperienced squad tripped Chattanooga, 12-0, but was none the less impressive.

Alabama's Crimson Tide takes on a tough foe in Clemson, at Tusculosa, Georgia entertains the Furman Hurricane at Atlanta and Florida plays its season's inaugural against The Citadel, at Gainesville, in three other bouts with Southern conference opponents.

The Mississippi State Maroons should not find Howard College troublesome in their argument at Starkville, where the Maroons beat Millsaps, 20-0.

NEGRO ELEVENS TO MEET TODAY

Ponce de Leon park will be the scene of the opening football game of the season this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when the Morris Brown College of Atlanta and Allen University, of Columbia, S. C.

Morris Brown, rated annually one of the best colored teams in Dixie, will be fighting to maintain supremacy over their rivals when they defeated last year in Columbia, while Allen will be fighting to break the jinx that has followed them through a period of many years and hand the Wolverines their first defeat in the history of the institution.

Texas Loop Finals Are Slated Tonight

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Dallas Steers' heavy hitters got going tonight and took advantage of the breaks and bounded themselves back into the Texas league playoff series with a 7-to-2 victory over Tulsa's Oilers.

The win squared the series at three games apiece and sent the teams back to Dallas for the seventh game scheduled tomorrow night.

Carnera Considers A Ring Comeback

ROME, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, former world's heavyweight champion, today announced he was seriously considering a ring comeback after showing surprising form in a recent exhibition bout.

He donned the gloves in a six-round bout against Ferruccio Bertazzolo, foremost Italian heavyweight contender, and displayed amazing speed and aggressiveness. The bout was staged at Adria to raise relief funds for the Fascist party.

Tough Battle Looms In Tarheel-Vol Clash

'CHAPL HILL, Oct. 1.—Some of the flashiest backs in Dixie will cavort for the glory of Alma Mater and the detection of football fans when North Carolina and Tennessee meet in Kenan stadium here next Saturday at 2:30 o'clock in a game that has been carded as one of the nation's major early season attractions.

BEARS FAVORED TO TIP PETRELS. IN ALBANY TILT

Capacity Crowd of 6,000 Expected To See Two Teams Battle.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—When 2,000 "petrel" seats were placed on the market for advance sale, backers of the Mercer-Oglethorpe annual classic didn't expect much of a reception.

Now it appears that better than a capacity crowd of 6,000 will be on hand in the new $50,000 Albany municipal stadium Friday night to watch the official opening exercises and the annual grid clash between the two state elevens.

Hundreds of south Georgians, many of them having never witnessed a college game, will be here Friday night if the weather permits. Many of these have never seen night football—that will be an added attraction.

The Bears, who scored a "moral" victory last week in holding the powerful Georgia Bulldogs to a 15-6 score, have been inspired by their showing in Athens and will likely go on in the field Friday night favored to win.

In Atlanta, the Petrel supporters have a different viewpoint. They believe the rapid improvement of the Petrels, who have won three straight weeks will place them on even terms with Coach Lake Russell's Baptists—and what's the pre-game dope ever had to do with the outcome of a Mercer-Oglethorpe game in the past anyhow?

That question of state gridiron supremacy remains unsolved and will continue to be a problem for discussion as long as the two institutions meet on the field, but Friday's game will at least decide the issue for 1936.

LIPPS, WILSON DRILL FOR BOUT

Unusual interest is being manifested in the Joe Lipps-Lore Wilson bout scheduled for Saturday night at East Point in the East Point city auditorium.

Boxing fans realize that this will be the last time to see Lipps in action for some time, since he has been called back to New York by Jack Dempsey to participate in bouts there and is eager to get a parting glimpse of his old foe in action.

Added to that is the fact that Lipps' opponent has defeated Benny O'Dell who holds two decisions over Lipps. Dempsey's promotion is being promoted by the East Point firemen for a special benefit fund with Jimmy Manning, Atlanta promoter, acting as matchmaker.

A fine preliminary card has been arranged with Harold Glymph meeting Dummy Nix in the semi-windup. Thirty rounds of boxing will be offered spectators at a very reasonable rate.

The show will get under way promptly at 8:30.

MONROE, GORDON TO CLASH TODAY

MONROE, Ga., Oct. 1.—Two powerful football teams, Monroe Aggies and Gordon Institute, of Barnesville, Ga., will clash today in the annual football game which has attracted a large attendance of better than 100,000 fans. That gives you a fairly graphic picture of interest in the league.

RESE PRESIDES. E. J. Reese, who is president of the league, was the presiding officer at the dinner, which was most delightful and informal. Mr. Reese let it be understood from the start that it was a celebration of a serious business, or words to that effect.

And so it was a delightful affair. Representatives of the league and members of the championship Shannon team were introduced.

Claude Satterfield, who played professional baseball with Mobile and Toledo, was the property of the Detroit Tigers—managed the Shannon team to the championship.

There was a hotly contested play-off between Shannon and Rockmart, with Shannon coming through with flying colors.

The great work of Satterfield, a native of this section, was highly praised. And Satterfield, in turn, recognized the worthiness of the opposition and deemed it a great honor, indeed, to have the privilege of facing the handsome trophy presented by the league.

MCGILL SPEAKS. Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, was the honored guest and principal speaker.

Dr. C. R. Wilcox, president of Darlington school and formerly assistant headmaster of McCallie school, introduced Mr. McGill.

Dr. Wilcox taught Mr. McGill at McCallie and recalled the time he (McGill) and other members of the football team rolled him from goal post to goal post in the snow.

Dr. Wilcox forced the admission from Mr. McGill that he pressed at McCallie as far back as 1914, which is, it seems, the very year the World War started.

Mr. McGill praised the fine work of the Shannon team and brought out in his talk that it was leagues such as this and players with this spirit that made possible the continued growth and popularity of baseball.

Even the underdog were given a big hand. They included Carl Hill, Earl Taylor and Emmett Whitfield. Truly, it was a wonderful affair.

TROPHIES PRESENTED. Trophies were presented the leading batter and the leading pitcher of the league by the secretary, C. J. Wyatt. Jack Gaston, Lindale outfielder, had a brilliant season average of .422 to win the batting trophy.

Little World Series Won by Milwaukee

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(UP)—Milwaukee, American association champions, defeated Buffalo, International league titleholders, 8 to 3, tonight to win the Little World Series.

It was the Brewers' fourth victory in five games.

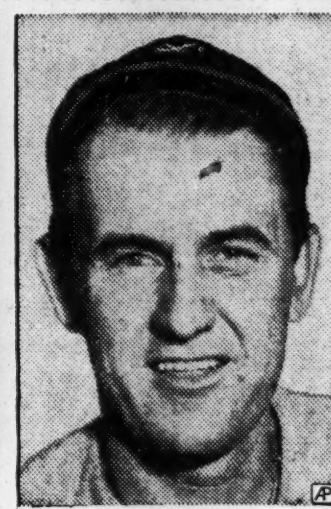

Milwaukee got 14 hits, including three home runs, off four Buffalo pitchers. Chet Laabs hit two of the Brewers' homers, Wilburn the other.

The Bisons threatened only once when they tried to get straight hits. He ranks as one of the ranking middleweights, and is considered a strong contender for Freddie Steele's title. The main bout is scheduled to go 10 rounds. An attractive program of supporting matches is being arranged.

Gomez Eats Big Steak But Game Is Postponed

Yankee Southpaw Gets All Ready With Plenty Power—and No Game.

By Scotty Reston.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Commissioner Landis was on the spot today. He postponed the second game of the World Series before the scribes had recovered from the night before, and then he vanished.

His announcement was brief. "The game is off because of wet grounds." But this was not enough. The writers wanted him to elaborate on the announcement. They cornered him in his hotel.

"Elaborate on wet grounds, gentlemen?" he asked. "Why, that's ridiculous."

One reporter insisted. "All right, sir, I'll elaborate," he begged the judge. "You may say I said the game is off because of very wet grounds."

The postponement did nothing to the betting odds. They still stand at 4 to 5 on either team. It did do something to the boys who invested in tickets, however. There was a good supply all over town, and the brokers were even advertising for buyers.

Bill Terry took a ribbing all day. He spent the morning in the clubhouse working on next spring's training schedule, nursed his bad knee for a while and then went down to the National league's press headquarters.

He was there with Frankie Frisch, Bill McKechnie and John Heydler, former president of the league.

A reporter came by the table and said seriously, "You didn't cover your tracks very well this morning, Bill."

"How's that?" asked Terry. "Well, there were three flooding the field with that fire hose this morning."

Terry didn't think it was a very good joke.

Given an off-day, a World Series, 500 visiting newspapermen, a lobby-full of baseball officials, and a little rain, it was inevitable that the rumors should be flying by nightfall. Nothing was too fantastic.

Samuel J. Bill Terry did move into the Giants' front office as general manager. Bill McKechnie will leave the Bees to take his place, and Shannon Team Honored for Winning Northwest Georgia Championship.

By Jack Troy.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 1.—If not all roads, at least those from Alto, Aragon, Cedartown, Lindale and Rockmart and Tubize led to Rome for the celebration honoring the Shannon team, champions of the Northwest Georgia textile league.

The above-mentioned cities formed the league, which is one of the oldest in the state. The league has been in operation for the past seven seasons, and this past season attracted a total attendance of better than 100,000 fans. That gives you a fairly graphic picture of interest in the league.

POSTPONEMENT FIRST IN EIGHT YEARS OF PLAY

Extra Day Favors Hubbell and Giants; Roosevelt To See Game.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The combination of two days of increasingly heavy rain and an unusually high tide, blocking the drainage facilities of the near-sea level diamond at the Polo Grounds, brought about a cessation of hostilities today in New York's baseball civil war.

As a direct consequence of the first postponement of a World Series game in eight years, President Roosevelt will view the second game at the Polo Grounds tomorrow, instead of the third contest at the Yankee stadium, as he originally had planned.

Moreover, the delay appears to fortify the pitching advantage already gained by the Giants as a result of Carl Hubbell's masterful triumph over the Yankees in the rain and rain of yesterday's opening game.

It assures an extra day of rest for Hubbell's talented left arm while paying the way for a duel tomorrow between Hal Schumacher, sinker-ball star of the National league champions, and the southpaw ace of the Yankees, Vernon Gomez.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE. Three hours before today's scheduled starting time for the second game, Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis poked his walking stick into the soggy surface of the Polo Grounds, examined mud that was still lock-deep around the base paths, and agreed with rival managers that the grounds were in no condition for play.

Following the examination, the sun came out, temperatures rose and a brisk breeze helped dry out the water-logged premises. By early afternoon, conditions were so much improved, with workmen busy under the direction of 74-year-old Henry Fabian, groundskeeper, that the entire field looked playable.

With prospects of better and warmer weather for the rest of the week, the warring clans hope to resume the battle tomorrow under vastly improved conditions. The Giants have already proved themselves better mud-brokers, with Hubbell demonstrating he has superior control and variety of playing conditions, but the Yankees have high hopes of squaring the series on firmer footing for their free-swinging sluggers.

President Roosevelt, after a stop-over in Jersey City tomorrow morning to dedicate a new medical center, will arrive in New York in time for luncheon at a midtown hotel and motor to the ball park around 1 o'clock, a half hour before game time.

Secret service men, shifting their advance preparations from one side of the Harlem river to the other, selected a box to the right of the Giants' dugout for the president's party.

Perfectly elaborate arrangements to facilitate the seating of the nation's chief executive.

Today's postponement, while generally considered to strengthen the Giants' position, caused no change in the betting odds. Jack Doyle, Broadway columnist, said it was still 4 to 5, and take your pick, for the series.

YANKS FAVORITES. The Yankees ruled favorites to win the second game and square the series, despite indications that Schumacher is back in top form and ready to back up Hubbell's great work the way he did in speeding the Giants to their decisive 1933 victory over the Senators.

Whether Schumacher wins or loses tomorrow, Manager Bill Terry of the Giants indicated he will give Hubbell a full three days' rest before sending his southpaw ace back to the firing line. This means Fred Fitzsimmons likely will draw the starting assignment for the third game, Saturday, at the Yankee stadium.

Hubbell, working the fourth game Sunday.

"We've got the edge and I figure we can keep it," said Terry. "The postponement suits us. I might change my plans but the way it looks now Hubbell will not work again until the fourth game."

REGAIN CONFIDENCE. From the Yankee standpoint the day off figures to give Joe McCarthy's young men that much extra time to pull themselves together and regain the confidence they seemed to lose in the mud during the closing stages of yesterday's game.

The American league champions do not think they got the benefit of any "breaks" in the opening game but they realized, too, that all the things they had been hearing about Hubbell were true. That, combined with the treacherous footing, was sufficient to discourage any Yankees still believe their favorites can concede the Giants two games, with Hubbell pitching, and still collect the winner's share of the World Series player pool.

White Sox Defeat Cubs in Opener, 5-1

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The White Sox landed on Bill Lee in one big inning, the fifth, today and defeated the Cubs, 5 to 1, in the opening game of the Chicago city championship series behind Vernon Kennedy's four-hit pitching. A crowd of 12,314 sight spectators watched the Sox triumph.

Tonight's game get-together was co-sponsored by President Eddie Reese and the Rome Chamber of Commerce. John R. Hornady is president and also editor of the Rome News-Tribune.

Tech Ready for Sewanee--3 Bulldogs To Miss Furman Game

Sewanee May Prove The 'Surprise' Eleven

Purple Team Has Cooked Up New Plays for Jackets; "Thriller" Anticipated.

By Jack Troy.

Speculation as to what Sewanee will pull against the Jackets when the Purple Tigers come down from their mountain retreat for the game here Saturday at Grant field is somewhat rife, as they say.

Very few, indeed, are figuring that Sewanee will offer any great threat to the Jackets' chances of winning, but the fact remains that Coach Hek Clark's Tigers may be something of a "surprise" team, inasmuch as it will be their first game of the season and, consequently, no scouts have had a look at their plays.

Indeed, scouts have not even been given the opportunity to see what they have in the way of manpower, including sophomores, and so on. And so forth.

All of which lends a bit of glamor to what otherwise would be classified simply as another warm-up contest.

ARE SERIOUS. The Jackets have not been taking the Tigers lightly, by any means, but at the same time they have been devoting a great deal of time to perfecting a defense against Kentucky Wildcat plays in scrimmage.

And so, you may well see that the Sewanee squad is in a very fine position to harass the Jackets no end.

The word drifts down from the mountain top that Hek Clark has installed a lot of new plays, so as to frustrate any efforts of the Jackets to drill against formations the Tigers used last season.

The Sewanee team employ a modified Notre Dame system. And Coach Clark has a sufficient number of experienced men to install a variety of plays that may offer something of a test to the Jackets' defense.

On the other hand, the Jackets, scheduled to throw caution and laterals to the four winds, may keep the ball so much of the time that the Sewanee defense, and not the Jackets, will be put to the test.

RAZZLE DAZZLE. Anyway, the Jackets are going in for plenty of the old razzle-dazzle. The only reason that they didn't throw any laterals in the Presbyterian game was due to the fact that Coach Alex figured the boys had become "lateral conscious" and wanted to get their hands off reckless teasing.

With the Kentucky game coming up, however, the Jackets need the experience of throwing forward laterals in a game, and so Sewanee is it. It simply was a case of "tag, you're it!" in so far as Sewanee was concerned.

Four veteran backs—Billy Fleming, Sonny Montgomery, M. E. Jackson and Harold Eustice—are expected to do a lot of running against the Jackets. Just how much progress they will make depends upon the mettle of the Jacket forwards and the alertness of side backs and back-ups.

Naturally lacking a great deal of manpower—or at least that's a reasonable supposition—the Tigers probably will resort to a passing game themselves.

It is quite likely that it will be an aerial battle, with the superior handling of the Jackets, not to mention weight, power and speed, triumphing convincingly in the end.

Bulldog Alumni, Please Notice! ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 1.—There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the time and place of the Furman-Georgia football game Saturday.

The Constitution has been asked to clear it up since many alumni do not know of the transfer of the game from Greenville to Athens.

Here are the facts: Time—Saturday, 3:30 p. m. (E. S. T.). Place—Sanford Field, Athens, Georgia.

Admission—Seats, $1.50; general admission, $1.

TECH EXPECTED TO 'TAKE TO AIR' AGAINST TIGERS

Jackets Use Many Laterals in Final Rough Drill for Game.

By Morris Siegel.

An aerial bombardment with running plays thrown in for variety is slated to be staged Saturday at Grant field when Georgia Tech's razzle-dazzle Jackets take on Coach Hek Clark's Sewanee Tigers in the second game of the year for the Men of the Flats.

Or such was the conclusion one reached yesterday while watching the Jackets conclude their rough work for the game.

The Tornado was sent through a grueling offensive drill against opposition furnished by the "Bee" boys and the fresh gridiron and razzle-dazzle seemed to be the order of the day.

AD INFINITUM. The backs would start on a well-intended end run or off-tackle burst and if they encountered any opposition would nonchalantly lateral the ball to one of their mates who in turn would do the same to another who in turn would—etc.

On one play it seemed that every one but Burton handled the ball.

Skeptics who think that the Techs have been taking the Sewanee game as a "pushover" may just as well change their opinion now. For the Jackets are sparring no effort in priming their offense and at the same time not overlooking their defense for the team from the mountain top.

The game will be the first of the season for the Tigers, hence the Jackets do not know what to expect from their foes. Added to that is the fact that the Jackets must get ready for that all-important game the following Saturday with Kentucky.

MURPHY PROMOTED. During the afternoon J. C. "Buck" Murphy, sophomore back from Jesup, Ga., was promoted to the varsity by Coach Alexander.

Harry Appleby, who received a hand injury recently, was out and took part in the drill and may see some service. Dick Beard, suffering a leg injury, was also out in uniform but took no part in the heavy work. Beard appears definitely out of the game.

It is hard to predict who will comprise the starting Jacket backfield, but a combination of Konemann, Hays, Tharpe and Edwards may get the call.

Only a light signal drill is slated for this afternoon. And then the Men of the Flats will be set for the Men From the Mountain Top.

KENNEL SHOW SET SATURDAY

The annual sanctioned dog show held in the fall of each year by the Atlanta Kennel Club, is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and evening, beginning at 3 p. m., at 265 Peachtree Street.

On account of the large number of entries, two rings will be in operation and eight judges will award the 200 ribbons and 33 trophies provided for the occasion.

Competition is limited to any dog three months old or older that is of a recognized breed, is pure bred and that has not won points in an official show.

Entries need not be made in advance, but will be taken at the ring-side up until the judging actually commences. The last event will be the competition of the winners of the various groups for the best in show trophy, a handsome silver tray.

Entry fee of 50 cents is charged for each entry, which includes an admission for the owner or handler. The admission charged is 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. Information concerning the show can be had by calling Dearborn 1115.

George Huff, 64, Passes in Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 1.—(P)—George Huff, a pioneer in the development of intercollegiate athletics in America, died today, leaving behind a record of achievement.

Director of athletics at the University of Illinois for 35 years, Huff succumbed after an illness of five days. He underwent an abdominal operation last Saturday but failed rapidly despite blood transfusions and the aid of an oxygen tent. He was 64.

His death occurred only a day after the board of trustees of the University of Illinois had granted him a year's leave of absence and had appointed Wendell S. Wilson, assistant football coach, as acting director of athletics.

As a scout for the Boston Red Sox, he is credited with finding Tris Speaker, one of baseball's all-time greats. He left Illinois in 1907 to manage the Boston Americans, but remained in that capacity only a year, returning to Illinois.

Pick the Tough Grid Games With the Williamson System

The Constitution today presents another week-end schedule and predictions by the Williamson system, which selects the winners each week on the basis of a scientific rating scale.

In the intersectional list, Temple is given a slight nod over Ole Miss, though a possibility of a tie is noted. Vanderbilt is selected to beat Chicago, and L. S. U. is favored to take Texas U. Tech and Georgia should both win, but Furman is conceded the chance of holding the Bulldogs to a tie. Davidson College is picked to defeat Navy.

Watch the results and the percentage of victories by the System this week.

EXPLANATION: Figure after each team is its rating according to the current Williamson Rating Table, published last Tuesday. In "Predict" column, 1, means win for No. 1 team; 2, means win for No. 2 team; T, means possible tie game or close outcome; R, means prediction reversed against ratings. No. 1 Team plays at home. X, Friday afternoon; Y, Friday night; Z, Saturday night.

Edward VII Loved Lillie Langtry For Her Jokes—Until He Was Butt

King Edward VIII of England appears likely to eclipse the record of his grandfather, King Edward VII, in his predilection for choosing feminine friends from among the "commoners" of his own land and the United States. How his "selections" compare with those of his grandfather is discussed here in a series of six articles, of which this is the fifth.

By JANE DIXON.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

His Majesty the late King Edward VII was more susceptible to beauty in women than is his grandson, the reigning Edward VIII.

Favorites of the present British monarch, both in his Prince of Wales days and since his accession to the throne, are attractive in a smart, sophisticated way, but are more notable for their glances of tongue than for the classic cut of their features. Edward VII, however, had an ardent eye for a pretty woman and when, as the young Prince of Wales, he met the loveliest woman of them all, Lillie Langtry, he bowed in subjugation.

The meeting occurred in the home of a lively and fashionable London hostess who was giving a supper party for the Prince following the opera. He was late, but the hostess, knowing his fancy for feminine charm, reserved a place for him next to Mrs. Langtry. From the beginning, the two made a hilarious time of it. He remained at her side during the entire evening and for many years to come.

Society Accepted Langtry. Only a short time previous to the meeting, Mrs. Langtry had burst upon the social horizon of London like a bombshell. She appeared at the opera on the arm of her husband, unjeweled, wearing a simple but revealing black gown, her face innocent of cosmetics, her hair drawn back loosely into a knot low on her neck. Her fresh womanhood and freedom from pose was a challenge to those conventional ladies who had spent hours before their dressing tables and who literally dripped gems. Immediately she was the cynosure of all eyes, the feminine ones wide with admiration, the masculine, narrow with envy.

Socialite hostesses who went in for lion-hunting discovered they could, with propriety, invite her to their soirées. She was the wife of Edward Langtry, whose father had to do with ships in Ireland with the result that he was both well-placed and wealthy. The Langtry vogue was under way.

It seemed so good a pitch that, when Mrs. Langtry entered the dual house of of Devonshire to attend a ball being given by their graces, the guests surged forward in a way to threaten her safety, so eager were they to catch a close-up of the beauty. Some of the bolder ones even mounted chairs and craned their necks for a better view. Noble ladies found themselves herding groups of hungry guests in drawing rooms, waiting for hours for the prince or Mrs. Langtry, or both, to appear at dinner, only to learn later that the royal playboy and his irrepressible playmate were riding in the park, oblivious of all except one another.

Parents Opposed Wedding. Lillie Langtry was born Emeline Charlotte Le Breton, on the Isle of Jersey in 1853. Her father was Dean of the Isle. Looking out of her father's house one stormy day, Lillie saw a boat being driven ashore. She ran out to wave encouragement to the castaways who presently made the shore. Among them was the young Irishman, Edward Langtry. He fell madly in love with her and not long thereafter married her. The dean of Jersey performed the ceremony and the Langtrys went to make their home in London.

There has been opposition to the marriage on the part of the bridegroom's family, so the young Langtrys were far from affluent. In 1874, she appeared again in the black dress that had gowned her so dramatically at the opera. She was of high degree, famous for the richness of her wardrobe, had the bad taste to remark that "Mrs. Langtry prefers to appear in the dark."

"Oh," laughed the envious Lillie, "you mean my black dress? It happens to be the only one I have." Brown tresses seemed to have a fascination for Edward VII. Mrs. Langtry's hair was a bright, rich brown, so abundant as to appear heavy, worn with studied carelessness. Her eyes were grayish-blue with violet shadows in them and they had the naive expression of a merry but innocent young girl. Her skin was white and velvety with the freshness of a York rose.

Millais, who proclaimed her the matchless beauty of all times, painted her in the black dress, holding a single white Jersey lily in her hand. The portrait was a sensation and thereafter Mrs. Langtry became "The Jersey Lily." Stiff-necked dowagers questioned the propriety of the lily as a symbol of the royal favorite, but they could not deny its verity as a characterization of her beauty.

Artful Artlessness. The prince appeared only to take pleasure but a certain pride in exhibiting his favor for her. They were seen everywhere together, at the races, in operas and theaters, on the royal yacht, at country houses of the 6000. To the "Jersey Lily" her husband had become "that fat uninteresting man" whose appearances in her company became more and more rare. She divorced him in Lakeport, Cal., in 1897. During one of her American intervals, after 14 years of marriage. He died in an insane asylum in Chester, England.

During the height of Mrs. Langtry's favor with the prince those who crossed swords with her found her artless disarming. She was invariably kind and she was an incorrigible hoyden. Her wit was of the rosy kind which ran practical jokes and the prince, who loved to laugh, was beguiled by the ingenuity she showed in putting his friends "on the spot."

This capacity for creating amusing situations was her undoing, according to well-founded tradition. One evening at dinner, with the prince's cronies gathered around the festive board, she made the faux pas of selecting Wales for the butt of her fun. She slipped a piece of ice down the royal's back. His Highness resented the affront to his princely dignity and made his disapproval plain, not only to his favorite but to the guests. It was the beginning of the end of romance.

With the eclipse of royal favor, the finances of the Langtrys became a public scandal, for Lillie would not temper her extravagance to the wind. She lived like a Pompadour with tradesmen thundering angrily at her heels. Langtry's house with its treasures under the hammer. Mr. Langtry disappeared. His wife, still at the height of her beauty, took to the stage to retrieve her financial loss.

Makes Millions on Tour. Her success in the drama in England was mild, for she was not a great artist, her performance being in the depth and fire. Fortune smiled in America, however, where she came for her first appearance in 1882. She million dollars in her first tour and won the devotion of Frederick Gebhard, wealthy sportsman who, in 1886, purchased for her twin houses, recovered her losses and made a fortune in New York city, and had them transformed into a setting worthy of the greatest beauty and charmer of her day. Together they purchased an 8,000-acre ranch in California where they planned to breed horses—her racing stables had been the finest in England, not excepting the royal string—but this dream dissolved in mist and drifted away. For a time her marriage to Prince Paul Esterhazy was predicted.

Then, at 47, Mrs. Langtry married Sir Hugo Gerald de Bathe, a young Briton whose family was one of the wealthiest and most distinguished in England. The groom was 28. Lady de Bathe continued her career in the theater, playing Kate Hardcastle in "The Stoops to Conquer," Rosalind in "As You Like It," "Cleopatra" and "Lady MacBeth." Oscar Wilde, who fell under her spell when he was an impetuous young poet in London and who, continued to adore her, wrote "Lady Windermere's Fan" for her. Her husband saw the still glorious Lillie occasionally, but he must have tired of the glamor that surrounded professional beauties in high places for, after a few years, he went to live in Italy and Lady de Bathe took up her residence in a princely villa in Monte Carlo.

King Edward's friendship for Lillie Langtry continued long after his romantic interest in her had died. On one occasion, when she was about to open at St. James theater in London, she lost her voice. The king, hearing of her misfortune, hastened to her side and sent his own physicians to attend her.

Perhaps the greatest triumph of the Edwardian favorites was her presentation at court during her second season in London society.

Duke Eleven Works For Gamecock Tilt

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 1.—Realizing they will face in South Carolina's Gamecocks at Columbia Saturday a team that is driving for, and capable of staging an upset, Duke's Blue Devils are working hard this week to correct the many mistakes they made in their victory over Colgate last week. The Gamecocks will be hard to beat. They will try to get revenge at Duke's expense for the defeat they sustained at the hands of V. M. I. last week. At the same time they will be the advantage of playing on their home field.

Members of the team did not feel that they played as well as they could against the Red Raiders. They did not have to be told that they did not cover kicks well, did not rush the kicker and passer well, failed to show much offensive line charge and at times messed their plays up rather badly. Too, the passing was not good, they were offside too much and fumbled too much.

Mercer Frosh Open At Cochran Today
COCHRAN, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Middle Georgia College Wolverines open their football season here tomorrow against the Mercer University freshmen eleven.

Middle Georgia defeated the freshmen, 21-0, last year. The Wolverines have had but two weeks of practice and only one hard scrimmage.

Coach Jake Morris believes the outcome of the game uncertain. He has worked his squad along fast to get the players in shape for the inaugural contest.

Middle Georgia College has just completed a fine concrete stadium with a seating capacity of 4,000.

The probable starting line for Middle Georgia: J. G. Joiner Jr. and Speer Bolton, ends; Newton Parker and James McKenzie, tackles; Charlie Brown and Edgar Eain, guards; Harry Ulmer, center; Howard Griffin, quarterback; Vergil Dickinson and Jim Harris, halfbacks, and Dick Edwards, fullback.

NOT THIS ONE.

PHILADELPHIA. — Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Temple's veteran football coach, has been accused of many gridiron tricks, particularly those pulled by the Carlisle Indians, but he denies he instructed Charley Dillon to tuck the ball under his jersey against Harvard in the early part of the century. "The boys thought that up themselves," Warner said the other day in reminiscing. "They first pulled it against Penn State and it was successful and then decided to work it on Harvard. At that, it was a pretty good trick."

POOR FROSH.

DETROIT.—Pity the poor freshmen. Andy Farinas, hard hitting University of Detroit back, inflicted painful injuries on almost every member of the squad who had to tackle him in scrimmage before the freshmen reported. Now they are getting pounded around.

ONE BENEDICT.

KNOXVILLE.—The University of Tennessee football team has one benedict on its roster. DeWitt Weaver, captain and star guard is married.

15-MILL LIMITATION IS LAUDED BY MADDOX

Real Estate Board Answers Statements of Commissioner Matthews.

Lashing out at Charles A. Matthews, DeKalb county commissioner who attacked the proposed 15-mill tax limitations on which voters of Georgia will pass in the November election, Paul Maddox, president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, yesterday issued a statement in which he scored county commissioners, peace officers and other local government officials who have joined the battle against passage of the proposed constitutional amendment.

The Maddox statement was in answer to one published by The Constitution in the issue of September 20 quoting Matthews at length.

Citing reports based on the comptroller general's office files, Maddox asserted Matthews should have been able to more nearly approximate tax losses which the commissioner listed. He also played Matthews' contention that operation of courts cost about 55 per cent of the revenue collected by DeKalb county.

Maddox also cited a letter written to county commissioners of Georgia in which J. J. Whitfield, president of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia, solicited funds with which to resist passage of the amendment.

Excerpts from Maddox's statement follow:

"It would seem that our county commissioners have the interest of the dear people so deep in their hearts that they are willing to commit illegal acts in the use of tax money to see that the dear people are protected against themselves. This amendment is a fair and reasonable one."

ment is an issue for the people to decide. Why are the county commissioners, who were elected by the people, afraid to have these same people use their own brains in deciding the issue? Have the county commissioners added to their duties the matter of doing all of the people's thinking for them? If they have, at least their thoughts should be directed by something approximating fact instead of a wild flight of imagination.

"We would like to know more about this 'home rule' that we would lose when the 15-mill amendment is ratified. The people will have voted to give themselves the right to pass on extraordinary and unusual expenditures. They will still control, when they want to, the election of state representatives. They will accord a general assembly no authority with which it is not now possessed. Such a suggestion, to my way of thinking, is pure 'bosh'."

OFFICIALS OF FAIR TO RETURN TODAY

Benton and Armour Visit Royal American Shows At Birmingham.

Mike Benton, president, and John Armour, vice president, of the Southeastern Fair Association will return to the city this morning from Birmingham, where they were guests of Carl Sedlmayr, general manager of the Royal American Shows, and P. T. Streider, manager of the Alabama State Fair last year.

Benton and Armour left the city yesterday afternoon by plane for a preview and inspection tour last night of the Royal American Shows, which will be featured all next week at the 22nd annual Southeastern Fair and Educational Exposition at Lakewood park.

The Royal American Shows will arrive early Sunday morning and will be in full operation Monday at noon, when the formal opening of the fair will take place.

Included in the shows are the greatest group of attractions, riding devices and midway features in open air amusement annals. A new midgey city, framed much like the Midway Village of the World's Fair, is one of the latest additions to the show. Many other new attractions have been added to the Royal American Shows since they last appeared here and all available space on the midway has been taken up by the shows.

COURT TAKES OFFICE USED BY RAMSPECK

Offices of Congressman Robert Ramspeck in the old postoffice building were closed yesterday for two weeks, the congressman being forced to vacate his Atlanta headquarters while the fifth circuit court of appeals is in session here. The court will meet Monday and custodians of the building were preparing the private chambers of the judges yesterday for their brief occupancy.

United States Commissioner Ed S. Griffith, on the same move, has been transferred across the hall of the third floor to one of the offices in the suite occupied by Marshal Charles Cox and his deputies.

Congressman Ramspeck, who will leave for Washington Saturday, said he expected to take a vacation during the next two weeks.

ALLEGED ROBBER HELD SANE BY JURY

Held by a jury to be sane, C. W. (Cleve) Griswell, white, went on trial in Fulton superior court yesterday afternoon on charges of robbing Ernest Polk of $45 and a watch last June 6.

Griswell entered a plea of not guilty to the robbery charge by reason of insanity and a hearing was held on this before the robbery trial began. Two doctors appointed by Judge G. H. Howard pronounced Griswell sane and a jury conferred in their opinion. A new jury was immediately drawn for the robbery trial, which will be continued today. Griswell is under indictment also for numerous charges of forgery and writing fictitious checks.

Veteran Porter Wins First City Hall Job

Scores of job hunters have appealed to William B. Hartfield, mayor-designate, but it remains for Jack Neason, veteran negro porter of the executive suite at the city hall to be the only one assured of a berth in the new administration.

Neason sided up to Hartfield during a visit of the mayor-designate to city hall and gave several incoherent but impressive and easily understood grunts.

Hartfield, smiling broadly, said: "That's all right, Jack. You can have the same job you've got now. I remember how you used to look after us when I was an alderman."

COOL, CLEAR WEATHER EXPECTED TO REMAIN

Cool weather and bright skies will continue in Atlanta today, according to word from the weather man. Temperatures today are expected to be down to 60 degrees this morning and will climb no higher than 74 degrees during the afternoon. Yesterday the range was between 61 and 71 degrees.

"Winds shifted around to the northwest during the afternoon, bringing a rising barometer and clearing the sky clouds," explained George W. Mindling, chief forecaster of the United States Weather Bureau.

"The clear skies will continue Friday and the cool air will continue to push in from the west."

GEORGIAN CALLED TO STEM EPIDEMIC

Warm Springs Chief in Chicago To Battle Polio Spread.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Georgia's Warm Springs Foundation, famous for its treatment of President Roosevelt, sent its chief surgeon, Dr. LeRoy W. Hubbard, to Chicago today to help the city fight its worst infantile paralysis epidemic since the 1917 siege killed 187 persons.

Dr. Hubbard went into conference with Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, immediately on arrival. From this and future meetings, Dr. Bundesen said health authorities hoped to develop measures to check the spread of the disease.

The month of September closed with 101 new paralysis cases. Dr. Bundesen reported, boosting the 1936 total to 135. There were 59 cases last year.

Dr. Hubbard will go into action tomorrow with a personal examination of some of the patients.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, founder of the National Union for Social Justice, charged late today that Governor James M. Curley, Democratic nominee for senator, had unsuccessfully sought to "oust the Union party from the state." He predicted Curley's defeat in the November election.

PREDICTS F. D. R. VICTORY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Bert Fish, United States minister to Egypt, predicted today President Roosevelt will be re-elected. Florida, he said, will give the president a "tremendous vote."
